PREFACE TO THE THIRTEENTH EDITION.

It was our intention to publish this edition in January, 1931, but for various reasons the work could not be finished before that time. The extra time that has been spent on the work was due also to the other intention of making this edition as useful as possible, both to the Bench and the Bar. Not that we have been spared in acting up to that intention and it is our hope that the book will satisfy the needs of all those who want correct references and complete information on questions of Criminal Procedure.

Some portions of the commentary which have become redundant in view of the changes in the law in recent years, have been deleted and yet the book could not be reduced owing to the additions that had to be made.

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

(WITH NOTES ON CLAUSES).

We the undersigned Members of the Joint Committee to which the Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898 and the Court Fees Act 1870 was referred have considered the Bill and have now the honour to submit this our Report with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

The Committee at its first meeting proceeded under rule 42 to elect the Honourable Dr. Sapru as its Chairman. The statement appended to our Report shows the number of the meetings held and the names of the Members who attended each meeting.

The following notes on the clauses of the Bill refer to all the important changes which we have made in the Bill. We have made a large number of small drafting amendments to which we do not think it is necessary to draw attention in detail.

Clause 2—We do not see sufficient reason for differentiating between sections 437 and 529 on the one hand and sections 192 and 407, on the other, and we have therefore included the first mentioned sections in the proposed sub-section (3) of section 10. We think that the suggestion that this sub-section should be transferred to section 17 of the Code should be considered and when the Code is consolidated we would not attempt any definition of the word inferior used in sections 435 and 436 as suggested by the Calcutta Bar Library Club. The Courts do not seem to have experienced difficulty in interpreting the word. Nor do we agree with the same critics that any amendment is necessary in the last column of Schedule II against section 124 A. Their point appears to us to be covered by sections 10 (2) and 18 (4) as proposed read with section 28 (c).

Clause 3—We think there is force in the suggestion of the Calcutta Bar Library Club that it is not necessary to restrict the appointment of an Additional Chief Presidency Magistrate to persons who are already Presidency Magistrates and have therefore substituted the words 'any person' for the word 'any Presidency Magistrate.'

Clause 5—This clause was introduced by the Committee which sat on the Bill in 1916. They refer to it in their note on clause 2 which makes certain amendments in section 10 of the Code regarding the appointment of Additional District Magistrates. We think that if it is necessary in section 29 (1) to refer to the provisions of section 10 then it is also necessary to make a reference to section 18 which as amended will provide for the appointment of Additional Chief Presidency Magistrates. But in view of the fact that sections 10 (2) and 18 (4) as proposed provide for the conferment on Additional District Magistrates and Additional Chief Presidency Magistrates respectively of all the powers exercisable by District Magistrates and Chief Presidency Magistrates under the Code and also under any other law for the time being in force, we are not satisfied that any amendment of section 29 is necessary in this respect. We have however amended the opening words of the section to bring them into conformity with the language of section 28.

Clause 6—In view of the fact that the Reformatory Schools Act 1897 has to a considerable extent been repealed in Madras by the Madras Children Act 1920 and may be repealed elsewhere we have proposed an addition to the new section 29 A to provide for such cases.
Clause 8.—We accept the amendments proposed by this clause but as a matter of justice have substituted the words “in which” for the words “to which”

Clause 9 and 10.—Some of our non-official members deprecated any extension of the powers of the police as laid on a restricted class of persons and we are agreed that the same considerations do not apply to section 4 of the Indian Penal Code where only a class of persons and not the police is mentioned. The amendment made to clause (c) of sub-section (1) of the (c) of sub-section (1) of the clause. We think that in the case of a person accused of giving information which is only in the discretion of the arresting officer to say whether or not a reasonable suspicion of the offence has been committed. We have made an amendment so that the arrest shall only be made by the officer issuing the requisition

Clause 11.—We think that the amendment of section 54 as drafted might not have the effect on the the first clause of sub-section (1). We do not think that this was the intention and therefore add a separate clause for arrest on requisition. We think that in the case should be provided, and we have therefore proposed to have the requisition shall reveal the offence or other charge by which the arrest is to be made by the arresting officer. We think that the arrest could lawfully have been made by the person issuing the requisition

Clause 12.—We think that the words “without unnecessary delay” that follows and we have made a slight drafting change to effect this

Clause 13.—The sub-sections which the Bill adds to section 88 imply that the Court could endorse an order of attachment or endorse an order of arrest on the same under sub-section (2) is to investigate and determine a claim or objection. We think that a limited power to transfer claims and objections for disposal to subordinate Magistrates would be useful and we have therefore provided that District Magistrates may transfer such cases to Magistrates not below the rank of second-class
Magistrates and that the Vice-President Magistrates may likewise transfer cases to Presidency Magistrates subordinate to them. The other amendments that we have made in this clause are consequential upon this.

Clause 15.—We consider that the words “if necessary” add nothing to the section and that therefore deleted them. We also think that a prosecution should not be launched under sub-section (6) unless the order in writing has been delivered or tendered to the person to whom it is addressed

Clause 16.—We agree generally that convictions for offences under Chapter VIII of the Indian Penal Code should not apply under section 106 but we have made an exception in the case of section 154A of the Indian Penal Code

Clause 18.—In view of the recent amendments made in the Press and Registration of Clubs Act, 1877 relating to the printing of newspapers we have made a consequential amendment here. We also think that the protection given by the last clause of section 108 should only extend to newspapers which are edited, printed and published in conformity with the Act.
Clause 10.—We notice that clause (f) of section 110 as re-drafted by the Bill, omits the reference to the counterfeiting of currency notes which appears in the present law. We have therefore included offences under sections 481A to 483D of the Indian Penal Code in the clause. We have also included them.

We considered a suggestion that clause (f) of section 110 should be deleted on the ground that it should be possible to bring every case under clause (f) within the remaining clauses of the section. We decided by a majority to retain the clause.

Clause 20.—In view of the numerous objections to the addition proposed by sub-clause (r) to subsection (2) of section 117, we are doubtful of the wisdom of the addition and we have therefore omitted it.

We approve of the principle of the sub-section (3) of section 117 which as an alternative to the immediate arrest allowed by the proviso to section 114 enables a Magistrate to make an interim order for security. But we see no reason why the interim order should not be in certain cases one for good behaviour, provided that an order of this nature is not made in proceedings under section 107. We have also re-drafted the proviso to new sub-section (3) in the hope of making its intention clearer.

We decided in favour of maintaining the amendment of present sub-section (3) which will enable the fact that a person is so desperate and dangerous as to render his being at large without security hazardous to the community, to be proved by evidence of general repute. Our colleague, Sir Sadar Ali dissents from this view. On the other hand we think that the deletion of the words or otherwise would be a mistake as the Courts might hold that some change in the law was intended by the omission, and that the sub-section was intended to be exhaustive of the methods of proof.

Clause 21.—We have adopted the suggestion that the provisions of new section 122 should be elaborated so as to enable a Magistrate to reject a surety previously accepted by him or his predecessor. This involves a few consequential amendments in the section which we have made.

We think that the procedure set out in sub-sections (2) and (3) of section 126 should apply in the case of a surety subsequently rejected and we have added a new clause which makes the necessary amendments in section 126. We have also laid down the grounds on which a Magistrate will be justified in rejecting a surety as an unfit person for the purposes of the bond. The three points which we have included are the only points that have been considered by the High Courts.

Clause 22.—We accept the amendments made in section 123 by this clause. We have added another amendment to provide that sub-section (6) of section 123 as it stands shall apply only to cases for security under section 110. We think that in cases under sections 108 and 109 imprisonment in default of furnishing security should be simple.

It has been pointed out that though the object of new sub-section (3-A) is to avoid differences of opinion in a single case between the Magistrate and the Sessions Judge, yet the amendment proposed by clause 106 in section 406 may have this very result inasmuch as in a single case one accused person may appeal to the District Magistrate while the case of another accused person will be referred to the Sessions Judge. The Bombay Government have suggested that where the case of one accused has to be referred to the Sessions Judge under section 123, the case of all should be referred whether they have given security or not. We have adopted this suggestion.

Clause 25.—The principal question in connection with this clause is whether as in the Bill, questions of title in relation to rights of way and the like should for the pr the Chapter be finally decided by the Magistrate, or whether the almost uniform decisions of the High Courts which lay down that the Magistrate must stay proceedings if he is satisfied that the question has been raised bona fide should be followed. We prefer to accept the latter view as laid down in Manipur v Bidhu Bhushan Sircar I I R 42 Cal 158 and as the case will not arise in all proceedings under this section and more especially as we incline to the opinion that the proposed redrafting of section 135 is not altogether satisfactory we have provided for it as a special case in a new section 139 A. Our proposals involve the necessity of laying down clearly that the Magistrate only is competent to inquire into a claim relating to title. In view of section 142 and of the fact that in a case of any importance either the person against whom the order was originally made or some member of the public will bring the matter before a Civil Court we do not think it necessary to lay down that the Magistrate may resume the proceedings upon the failure by the person against whom the order was made to institute civil proceedings within a reasonable time.

Clause 26 — We accept the amendment made in section 144 by this clause. It was suggested to us that section 144 should be elaborated so as to enable a person aggrieved by an order made under the section to require the Magistrate to make a judicial inquiry regarding the truth of the information on which he had acted and thereby to bring in the revisional powers of the High Court. With the exception of Saiyad Raza Ali we think this proposal goes too far and that it is necessary to maintain the executive character of proceedings under sect on 144. We are however prepared—and we have proposed an amendment to this effect—to lay down that a person aggrieved shall be entitled to apply to the Magistrate and show cause against the order and that the Magistrate shall give him an opportunity to be heard in person or by pleader and shall record an order in writing on the application giving his reasons where he rejects it.

Clauses 27 to 30 — In view of the objections of the Bengal Government, we do not think sections 145, 147 and 148 should apply to the Presidency towns. We have therefore omitted the first amendment made by clause 27 and the references to Presidency Magistrate and Chief Presidency Magistrate respectively in clauses 29 and 30.

In order to meet certain difficulties which have arisen in connection with the words receive the evidence produced by them in sect on 145 (4) we have made an amendment adopting the phrasingology of section 244 (1) and have also added a new sub section (8 A) on the lines of section 244 (2). We have made an addition to the first amendment made in sub section (6) of section 145 to make the intent on clearer. We have introduced a new clause which by an amendment of section 146 will enable a District Magistrate to withdraw the attachment of property at any time when he is satisfied that there is no longer any likelihood of a breach of the peace.

Doubts have been expressed as to the procedure to be followed in cases under section 147 and we have introduced amendments here to make it clear that the procedure is to be that laid down by section 145.

Clause 31 — In view of the general objection to the amendment which confines investigations to officers not below the rank of Sub-Inspector, we have made an amendment which enables Local Governments to specify a lower rank. We recognise that police work in some Provinces might be severely hampered by the first amendment made by the Bill in section 157.

With regard to the second amendment we observe that investigations are made under sect on 157 from information received or otherwise. There will not necessarily therefore always be an informant and we have inserted the words "if any" after the word "informant."
Clause 33—We discussed the provisions of the proposed new section 162 at length and considered in detail the objections received in connection with it. We recognise the force of some of the criticisms directed against the section but we do not think that power should be given to compel, by means of perjury, prosecution witnesses who have turned hostile, and still less should power be given in respect of a defence witness. We have therefore, left the clause unaltered.

Clause 34—The intention of the Bill was to leave the position in regard to statements made under section 164 unaltered but to confine the recording of confessions under that section to superintending Magistrates. We approve the Bill in so far as it deals with confessions and we think that statements also should not be recorded under the section by third-class Magistrates at all or by second-class Magistrates unless specially empowered.

We consider that a statutory obligation should be laid on a Magistrate acting under the section to warn an accused person about to make a confession that the same may be used against him and we think that the certificate prescribed by sub-section (3) should record the fact that the warning had been given.

Clause 35—Suggestions have been made that section 165 is re-drafted by the Bill goes too far and that it should only permit a search to be made for something specified. We think the utility of the section would be largely impaired if effect were given to these suggestions, but we have provided a safeguard by requiring that an officer acting under sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) shall record in writing his reasons for making a search or requiring a search to be made.

Clause 36—In the Bill it is introduced an investigating officer could not be below the rank of Sub-Inspector. We have proposed to some extent to remove this restriction but we are inclined to think that the powers conferred by section 166 should not be exercised by a police officer making an investigation who is below the rank of Sub-Inspector. We realise, however, that there may be administrative difficulties in this connection, and if such difficulties are pointed out by Local Government, we should be prepared to retain clause 30 unaltered.

Clause 37—in section 167, however, which confers a power to ask for a warrant, we would confine the operation to investigating officers not below the rank of Sub-Inspector.

We consider that the Bill does not go far enough in its restriction of the Magistrates who should be authorised to remand to police custody. We would confine the power to first-class Magistrates and second-class Magistrates specially empowered.

Clause 38—We see no cogent reason for the first amendment of sections 169 and 170, which substitutes the words 'upon the completion of an investigation' for 'upon an investigation.' In the case of 169, we agree that the power contemplated by the section should be exercisable by investigating officers, and we see no reason in this case to restrict the power to officers not below the rank of Sub-Inspector. With regard to section 170, however, we consider that the direct responsibility for sending up a case should rest with the officer in charge of the police-station. Section 168 undoubtedly contemplates that the officer in charge is to assume responsibility and to enable all investigating officers to send up cases under section 170 without reference to the officer in charge would tend to make section 168 of no effect.

We considered whether the power to admit to bail in bailable cases should not be extended to investigating officers, but, on the whole, we are inclined to confine this power also to the officer in charge of the police station.

Clause 39—We have deleted this clause, as we think that the power to send a witness to the Court in custody should only be exercisable by the officer in charge of the police station.
Clause 40 — Here, again, we think that the functions contemplated by section 173 should be exercised by the officer in charge only.

We have considered the objections raised to clause (b) which the Bill adds to section 173 (1). On the whole, we are in favour of retaining it. But we have as in clause 31, introduced the words 'if any', to meet the case where there is no informant.

Clause 45 — We approve the amendment made in section 190 by this clause but we think that Courts should take cognisance under section 190 (1) (b) only upon reports in writing and

Clause 47 — We approve generally the amendment of section 195 proposed by the Bill, but in sub-clauses (b) and (c) of sub-section (1) instead of providing for a complaint by the Local Government or some officer duly authorised in this behalf we prefer to have a complaint made by order of or under authority from the Local Government as in section 196.

The drafting of sub-section (7) which now becomes sub-section (3) has been the subject of severe criticism and we have introduced an amendment which we think removes the objections which have been raised to the existing sub-section.

We have here introduced a new clause in the Bill making a consequential amendment in section 196-A which has apparently been overlooked.

Clause 48 — New section 196-B is designed to meet the difficulty which arises from the fact that cases under sections 196 and 196-A cannot be properly investigated by the police before complaints are made. Doubts have arisen as to whether investigations can be ordered under section 155 (2) by a Magistrate without his taking cognisance of the case. The new section will provide for a preliminary investigation (we have substituted the word investigation for the word inquiry). We recognise that it does not altogether meet the case where the desirability of adding a new charge arises in the Sessions Court. It has been suggested that this difficulty might be met to some extent by substituting the words 'proceed to the trial for the words take cognisance in sections 196 and 196-A'. But on the whole we prefer not to make this change and to leave clause 48 of the Bill unaltered in substance. In addition to the alteration referred to above we have made a slight drafting change.

Clause 49 — It has been pointed out to us that difficulties with regard to section 197 have recently come to light. There are certain public servants who are only removable from office by the Secretary of State and it is unreasonable that they should obtain no protection under the section. Further, in view of section 4 (2) of the Code the word 'Judge' has to be interpreted according to the definition given in section 19 of the Indian Penal Code with the result that Magistrates acting in certain capacities under the Code e.g. when holding inquiries obtain no protection. We have, therefore, proposed a re-draft of sub-section (1) of section 197 to meet these difficulties. We have confined the operation of the section to public servants removable by a Local Government or some higher authority and have provided that the sanction required for a prosecution will be the sanction of the authority which has power to remove. Mr. Chaudhri would prefer to leave section 197 unaltered save in so far as the Bill proposed to amend it he considers that the amendment proposed by us would enhance the difficulty of obtaining sanction.

Clause 51 — We note that the case of the absent husband will in view of the amendment proposed in the Bill be provided for twice. Under section 199 of the Code as it stands any person who had care of the woman on behalf of the absent husband at the time when the offence was committed can make a complaint whereas under the provision any other person may with the leave of the Court make a complaint. We think this was probably an oversight. We have therefore, removed the case of absence from the proviso and have provided in the main section for the leave of the Court in the case where the husband is absent.

Clause 52.—We have adopted the suggestion that the new section 199-A should apply to lunatics as well as to minors. We note that there has been some criticism of the drafting of the new section and we have re-drafted a portion of it so as to provide that where the person applying for leave to make a complaint has not been declared by competent authority to be the guardian of the person of the minor or lunatic, and where the Court is satisfied that such guardian has been appointed, the Court shall give such guardian a reasonable opportunity of objecting to the application.

Clause 53.—We have re-drafted the new proviso to section 200 to bring it more into line with the existing proviso and also to remove the idea that when the complainant is a Court there is any possibility of examining the complainant.

Clause 54.—We approve the alterations made by this clause in section 202 subject to the following remarks. The words 'where such examination is prescribed by this Code.' cover the case of a Presidency Magistrate referred to in proviso (b) to section 200. We consider that Presidency Magistrates should be required to examine the complainant and to record his statement in cases where the Court intends to postpone issue of process and order an inquiry under section 202 (1).

Clause 55.—We see no force in the introduction of the word 'previous,' and we have deleted it. We have also made a slight drafting alteration in this clause.

Clause 58.—We have given effect to the suggestion of the Calcutta High Court that powers under section 219 should only be exercised by Magistrates who are empowered to commit for trial.

Clause 63.—We consider that the re-draft of section 237 proposed by this clause is a great improvement on the existing section. We have discussed the various criticisms which have been levelled against the clause and have not seen our way to make any amendment of substance. We think it would be dangerous if not impossible, to attempt any definition of the phrase in the course of the same transaction. An exhaustive definition is not feasible, and if the phraseology is altered the Courts would be deprived of the guidance which they now have from a long series of rulings on the point. We do not find that there has been any pronounced conflict of opinion, the reason being that the Courts instead of attempting to lay down general principles as a rule discuss each case on its merits. We have adopted a suggestion to substitute the words 'is alleged to have been transferred' for the words 'has been transferred' in clause (c).

Clause 65.—We have introduced an amendment in section 244 to provide for the case when a complaint is made by a Court and we have introduced a new clause 67A in the Bill making a similar amendment in section 252.

Clause 66.—We are doubtful whether a Magistrate acting under section 349 records a finding. All that the section requires him to do is to record his opinion. We have therefore, proposed a re-draft of this clause.

Clause 67.—We think that the words 'or to a Magistrate' near the beginning of this clause were left out on the ground that information to a Magistrate from any person other than a police-officer must be a complaint. We think that this view overlooks the words 'with a view to his taking action under this Code' which occur in the definition of 'complaint.' We also think that there is some force in the fact pointed out by the Calcutta High Court that section 190 (1) (c) seems to draw a distinction between information received and a complaint. We have therefore, restored the words 'or to a Magistrate.'
Sub-section (1) as re-drafted does not provide for the case where the complainant is absent at the time judgment is delivered, and we think power should be given in such a case to summon him to appear and show cause.

We think that there is some anomaly in enabling a Magistrate who cannot impose a fine of more than Rs 50 to award compensation up to Rs 100 and we have, therefore, proposed to reduce the amount of compensation which third class Magistrates can award to Rs 50.

In view of section 547, we do not see any necessity to provide in the new sub-section (2-A) that compensation should be recoverable as if it were a fine.

We have re-drafted the proposed addition to sub-section (4) to make the intention clearer.

We discussed at some length the various merits of the phrases—'frivolous or vexatious' as in the present Code, "false and either frivolous or vexatious" as in the Bill, and "false or vexatious to the knowledge of the party" as in Act IX of 1922 recently passed to provide for compensatory costs in respect of false claims and defences. On the whole, we are in favour of the Bill as drafted. We do not think that the procedure of section 250 should be used in every false case unless the case is also either frivolous or vexatious. In more serious cases it is desirable that the Magistrate should act under section 476 with a view to the institution of a prosecution.

Clause 68.—It was suggested to us that the new section 255-A is unnecessary on the ground that though a procedure for the proof of previous convictions is necessary in a Sessions Court to prevent the Jury or the Assessors from being prejudiced by anything they may hear as to the accused's previous record, yet in warrant cases the same considerations do not apply. On the whole, however, we think the new section may serve a useful purpose and we have retained it.

Clause 69.—The criticisms of the amendment introduced by this clause go to two extremes. On the one hand it is suggested that the accused should have a right to postpone his decision as to the cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses until the commencement of the next hearing of the case. On the other hand it has been suggested that this provision is likely to be grossly abused for purposes of the defence, and that the introduction of the words "if the Magistrate thinks fit" is an inadequate safeguard. We think that the amendment proposed by the clause is a reasonable compromise between these divergent views and we therefore propose no change.

Clause 70.—We have re-drafted this clause for the reason referred to in our remarks under clause 66.

Clause 71.—The amendment proposed by the Bill would give the Magistrate discretion to discharge the accused when the complainant was absent in any case instituted upon complaint. We are inclined to think that this went too far, and we think it is sufficient to extend the application of the section to cases of non-cognisable offences.

Clause 72.—On the whole we are not satisfied that it is desirable to make offences under section 309 of the Indian Penal Code triable summarily and we have, therefore, deleted this clause.

Clause 76.—We think the amendments proposed in section 288 effect a considerable improvement but we would lay down that the evidence of a witness before the committing Magistrate can only be treated as evidence for all purposes "subject to the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act." We considered the suggestion that the power conferred by this section should be exercisable by Appellate and Revisional Courts when the lower Court had refrained from exercising it, but, on the whole we were of opinion that no provision should be made in this respect.
Clause 85.—We think there are two defects in this clause as drafted in the Bill. In the first place we consider that it should be clearly laid down, as in the present section that each accusation should consist of two or more separate allegations. Secondly, the amendment made in the Bill did not remove the second part of the opinion. We have redrafted the clause so as to remove these defects.

Clauses 85.—After considerable discussion of the provisions of section 337 and examination of the large body of opinions on this clause we have unanimously come to the following conclusions:

(a) Instead of including all offences punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years we have made the limit ten years and have added as special cases sections 211, 216-A, 349, 401, 435 and 477 of the Indian Penal Code.

(b) The Magistrates who should be allowed to tender a pardon should in our opinion be Magistrates of the first class who are inquiring into the offence and any District Magistrate. Presidency Magistrate, Sub-Divisional Magistrate or, with the sanction of the District Magistrate, a Magistrate of the first class having jurisdiction in any place where the offence might be inquired into or tried.

(c) The power to tender a pardon should be exercisable during an investigation as well as after a magisterial inquiry has begun.

(d) We have deleted the words "other than a Presidency Magistrate." We see no reason why Presidency Magistrates should not record their reasons for tendering a pardon.

(e) We do not agree with the Committee of 1916 that it should not be necessary to produce as a witness in the Sessions Court an accused person who has accepted a pardon.

(f) We think all cases in which there is an approver should be committed for trial and we have deleted the provision which enabled cases to be transferred to section 30—Magistrates.

Clause 86.—We accept clause 86 so far as it goes except that we would substitute a certificate by the Public Prosecutor for an allegation by the prosecution as the basis of the prosecution of a person who has accepted a tender of pardon. We consider, however, that it is desirable to lay down some procedure with regard to the plea contemplated by the proviso to subsection (1). The Bill contains no indication as to when this plea is to be raised and what is to be the effect of it. The difficulties of procedure may obviously arise with reference to sections 255, 271 (2) and 272. We, therefore, propose a new section to be added after section 339 which lays down that when a person to whom a pardon is tendered is being tried under that section, he shall at the commencement of the proceedings be asked whether he raises the plea that he has complied with
Sub-section (1) as re-drafted does not provide for the case where the complainant is absent at the time judgment is delivered and we think power should be given in such a case to summon him to appear and show cause.

We think that there is some anomaly in enabling a Magistrate who cannot impose a fine of more than Rs 50 to award compensation up to Rs 100 and we have, therefore, proposed to reduce the amount of compensation which third class Magistrates can award to Rs 50.

In view of section 547, we do not see any necessity to provide in the new sub-section (2 A) that compensation should be recoverable as if it were a fine.

We have re-drafted the proposed addition to sub-section (4) to make the intention clearer.

We discussed at some length the various merits of the phrases — 'frivolous or vexatious' as in the present Code, 'false and either frivolous or vexatious' as in the Bill and 'false or vexatious to the knowledge of the party' as in Act IX of 1922 recently passed to provide for compensatory costs in respect of false claims and defences. On the whole, we are in favour of the Bill as drafted. We do not think that the procedure of section 250 should be used in every false case unless the case is also either frivolous or vexatious. In more serious cases it is desirable that the Magistrate should act under section 476 with a view to the institution of a prosecution.

Clause 68 — It was suggested to us that the new section 255-A is unnecessary, on the ground that though a procedure for the proof of previous convictions is necessary in a Sessions Court to prevent the Jury or the Assessors from being prejudiced by anything they may hear as to the accused's previous record yet in warrant cases the same considerations do not apply. On the whole, however, we think the new section may serve a useful purpose and we have retained it.

Clause 69 — The criticisms of the amendment introduced by this clause go to two extremes. On the one hand it is suggested that the accused should have a right to postpone his decision as to the cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses till the commencement of the next hearing of the case. On the other hand it has been suggested that this provision is likely to be grossly abused for purposes of the defence, and that the introduction of the words 'if the Magistrate thinks fit' is an inadequate safeguard. We think that the amendment proposed by the clause is a reasonable compromise between these divergent views and we therefore propose no change.

Clause 70 — We have re-drafted this clause for the reason referred to in our remarks under clause 66.

Clause 71 — The amendment proposed by the Bill would give the Magistrate discretion to discharge the accused when the complainant was absent in any case instituted upon complaint. We are inclined to think that this went too far, and we think it is sufficient to extend the application of the section to cases of non cognisable offences.

Clause 72 — On the whole, we are not satisfied that it is desirable to make offences under section 309 of the Indian Penal Code triable summarily, and we have, therefore, deleted this clause.

Clause 76 — We think the amendments proposed in section 288 effect a considerable improvement, but we would lay down that the evidence of a witness before the committing Magistrate can only be treated as evidence for all purposes 'subject to the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act'. We considered the suggestion that the power conferred by this section should be exercisable by Appellate and Revisional Courts when the lower Court had refrained from exercising it, but, on the whole, we were of opinion that no provision should be made in this respect.
Clause 94—We are inclined to agree with those critics who point out that the re-draft proposed in a clause (as in subsection 1) of section 302 does not get rid of the difficulty that a Magistrate has to make up his mind as to the sentence he will impose before he begins the case. We do not see how this difficulty can be got rid of, but we think that the amendment proposed has the advantage of bringing the language of this section into conformity with the language of section 204 and 204 and we would therefore retain this sub-clause.

In order to meet the difficulties that have arisen we have introduced a sub-section lying down that President Magistrates in cases subject to appeal shall make a memorandum of the substance of the examination of the accused and we have introduced a new clause making a consequential amendment in subsection (4) of section 304.

The several members who constituted a majority in the Committee, expressed their deh on certain with the divisions drawn in the Code between Presidency Magistrates and other Magistrates and in particular with regard to this clause would have liked to see Presidency Magistrates required in warrant cases at all events, to keep as full a record as any other Magistrate. But the Committee as a whole held that there was some force in the contention put forward by numerous High Court Judges that no change should be made in the Code affecting to any extent the special powers of Presidency Magistrates until a much fuller inquiry had been made into the question of their status, power and procedure. We desire to take this opportunity of placing on record our hope that it may be possible to appoint a small Committee to undertake this investigation.

Clause 95—In view of the objections taken by the Judges of the High Courts to the amendment of section 305 we have modified the clause in such a way as to provide that rules shall be made prescribing the manner in which the evidence shall be taken down in cases coming before the Courts and that the evidence shall be taken down in accordance with those rules. We do not think it necessary that the Judges of the Court should take down the evidence themselves, but we are of opinion that there should certainly be some record.

Clause 96—We do not see any necessity to limit the privilege of dictating judgments in the manner provided by the Bill and we have therefore, re-drafted this clause. We think it desirable to lay down that orders under sections 118 and 123 (3) should be deemed to be judgments for the purposes of the section.

Clause 97—The proposal to repeal the words "other than a High Court" was intended to remove the possibility of reading section 369 as if it gave High Courts unlimited powers of altering or reviewing their judgments. But there are cases other than those referred to in sections 335 and 484 in which a review of judgment is possible. We would refer to section 434 and also to clause 26 of the Letters Patent of the Presidency High Courts. The Indian Legislature has power to amend the Letters Patent of the High Courts and the amendment introduced by clause 27 might be interpreted as an intention to amend the Letters Patent in this respect. We have, therefore, re-drafted the amendment so as to provide that no Court shall alter or review its judgment save as provided by or under any law from the time being in force or, in the case of a High Court, in its Letters Patent.

Clause 98—This amendment of section 378 has been condemned by a majority of the Judges who have expressed an opinion on the Bill. In view of the fact that the difficulty which the amendment is intended to meet is probably of rare occurrence, and that the second portion of the proviso will be inapplicable in the case of Judicial Commissioners Courts which do not at present consist of five Judges, we prefer to leave the law as it is and we have deleted this clause.
Act, 1912 We do not consider that a power is required to vary the order in any other respect in view of the provisions of sections 473, 474 and 475 of the Code, which appear to provide for all contingencies including absolute release or release on security. We would, therefore, omit proviso (b) to section 466 (2) and sub-section (2) of section 471 and would retain in section 474 the words "section 466 or" which clause 124 of the Bill proposes to remove. We see no reason why the provisions of section 474 should not apply to cases coming under section 466. We would, however, draw attention to the fact that the word "detain" is in the Code being substituted for the word "confine," and would recommend that an opportunity should be taken to make a corresponding amendment in section 35 of the Indian Lunacy Act.

With regard to the first proposed proviso to sub-section (1) of section 471, we note that the Local Government has power under section 475 to deliver lunatics to relatives after an order has been passed under section 471, and the Local Government only exercises its powers under that section on receipt of expert advice. We do not think it desirable to enable a Court, to exercise the same power on its own responsibility, and we would point out that the Committee of 1916 itself expressed the opinion that once a person has been ordered by a Court to be detained as a lunatic, provision for his care periodical examination, release, etc., should be a matter for the Local Government and not for the Courts. The inclusion of the proviso which we have referred to is inconsistent with this opinion, and for these reasons we have deleted it.

Clause 126.—The changes that we have made in the proposed section 476 are not of great importance. We have provided that a Court can act on application made to it or suo motu and after such preliminary inquiry, if any, as it thinks necessary. For the words "committed before it or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding" we have substituted the phraseology used in the proposed new section 195. We have substituted "may make a complaint" for "shall make a complaint" and, in view of the criticism of the words "nearest first-class Magistrate" we have provided that a complaint should be sent to a first-class Magistrate having jurisdiction. For the words "if he thinks expedient in the interests of justice," which we think might hamper a Magistrate in the exercise of his powers of adjournment, we have substituted "if he thinks fit." In order to give effect to the decision arrived at in our consideration of clause 114 that proceedings under section 476, etc., should be subject to revision, we have introduced words which will make it necessary for the Court to record an order.

We have entirely re-drafted sections 476-A and 476-B. Section 476-A in our re-draft is now confined to the case where a superior Court takes action after no action whatever has been taken under section 476 in an inferior Court. Section 476-B provides specifically for an appeal against the making of a complaint or against a refusal to make a complaint.

Section 477 is inconsistent with section 476 as proposed by the Bill because the latter section made it obligatory on the Court to make a complaint and send it to a first-class Magistrate. This defect has been removed by one of the amendments we have made in section 476, but we are doubtful whether section 477 should stand. We considered a proposal to enable a Court of Session to try a case committed to it after a complaint had been made by itself, but we do not think it desirable that a Court which has instituted the proceedings should dispose of the case itself, and we have, therefore, introduced a clause into the Bill repealing section 477.

Clause 127.—We notice that the original Bill proposed to raise from Rs 50 to Rs 100 the amount awardable as maintenance under section 488. This proposal was rejected by the Committee of 1916, but, in view of the passing of the Maintenance Orders Enforcement Act, 1921, which enables COURTS to enforce summary orders up to an amount of £2 a week, we think the limit in our own laws might well be raised to Rs 100. This involves a consequential amendment in section 489.

Clause 128—We do not consider that the addition made by this clause to section 491 is particularly necessary or desirable. It is true that in respect of extradition proceedings an alternative procedure should be set out in section 7 of the Indian Extradition Act, 1903, but having regard to the view taken by the Calcutta High Court in L. R. 31 Cal 164 as to the scope of its functions under the section, we think this clause might well be deleted.

Clause 129—We are doubtful whether the second amendment made by the Bill in section 492 really effects what was intended. In some places there are special Police Acts and they do not always give the local government power to delegate to Assistant Superintendents the powers of a District Superintendent. Moreover, there is a variety of nomenclature and we think it better to leave it to the local government to prescribe the rank of police-officers who may be appointed Public Prosecutors for the purposes of a particular case.

Clause 130—It was pressed upon us that the provisions as to bail in non-bailable cases are much too stringent. One suggestion made to us was that in section 497 we should delete all words after "may be released on bail" in subsection (1) and the whole of subsection (2). The result would have been to give all courts full discretion in the matter of allowing bail in non-bailable cases, and we felt generally that this was going too far. What we have done is to allow the Court or police-officer to release on bail in a non-bailable case unless there appear to be reasonable grounds for believing that the accused has been guilty of an offence punishable with death or transportation and as some safeguard against this we have provided for a review by the Sessions Court or the High Court of any order admitting to bail in a non-bailable case. Some of us—including all the official members of the Joint Committee—are of opinion that this decision goes too far and that in the end it will not tend towards the administration of justice.

Clause 135—We note that preference has been expressed for the draft of subsection (7) as contained in the original Bill and, on the whole, we have preferred to restore the original draft. It provides that in proceedings against a surety a certified copy of the judgment may be used to prove the commission of the offences which constituted a breach of the bond but that this proof may be rebutted. It was indeed suggested to us that we should make a certified copy of the judgment conclusive proof but we are inclined to think that this would go too far.

Clause 139—We have extended the scope of the proposed subsection (3) of section 523 to Courts of confirmation and reference.

Clause 141—We have found section 526 somewhat difficult to deal with. One class of opinions presses for greater safeguards against frivolous, vexatious or dilatory applications for transfer. Another class deplores any measures which makes a transfer more difficult to obtain. We think it is unavoidable to retain in the Code some provision for the compulsory adjournment of a case when an intention to apply for a transfer has been notified. But we recognise that the provisions of the section, as they stand, have lent themselves to gross abuse, and therefore, we feel that greater safeguards are necessary. For these reasons in the first place, we maintain the principle of the new subsection (6A) which enables the High Court to award costs in dismissing an application. We have, however, modified it to this extent that it will enable the High Court in cases where it is of opinion that the application was frivolous or vexatious, to award such amount by way of reasonable costs in the High Court and the Court below as it thinks fit. We think the last sentence of new subsection (6A) was superfluous in view of the provisions of section 547.
We do not consider that a power is required to vary the order in any other respect in view of the provisions of sections 473, 474 and 475 of the Code which appear to provide for all contingencies including absolute release or release on security. We would, therefore, omit proviso (b) to section 466 (2) and sub-section (2) of section 471 and would retain in section 474 the words "section 466 or" which clause 124 of the Bill proposes to remove. We see no reason why the provisions of section 474 should not apply to cases coming under section 466. We would, however, draw attention to the fact that the word 'detain' is in the Code being substituted for the word 'confine' and would recommend that an opportunity should be taken to make a corresponding amendment in section 35 of the Indian Lunacy Act.

With regard to the first proposed proviso to sub-section (1) of section 471, we note that the Local Government has power under section 475 to deliver lunatics to relatives after an order has been passed under section 471, and the Local Government only exercises its powers under that section on receipt of expert advice. We do not think it desirable to enable a Court to exercise the same power on its own responsibility, and we would point out that the Committee of 1916 itself expressed the opinion that once a person has been ordered by a Court to be detained as a lunatic, provision for his care periodical examination, release, etc., should be a matter for the Local Government and not for the Courts. The inclusion of the proviso which we have referred to is inconsistent with this opinion and for these reasons we have deleted it.

Clause 126—The changes that we have made in the proposed section 476 are not of importance. We have provided that a Court can act on application made to it or suo motu after such preliminary inquiry, if any, as it thinks necessary. For the words "committed or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding" we have substituted "may make a complaint" and, in view of the criticism of the words "nearest first class have provided that a complaint should be sent to a first class Magistrate having words "if he thinks expedient in the interests of justice," which we think words in the exercise of his powers of adjournment we have substituted to give effect to the decision arrived at in our consideration of clause section 478, etc., should be subject to revision, we have introduced a record an order.

and 476-B. Section 476-A in our re-draft takes action after no action whatever has been taken 476-B provides specifically for an appeal 226 as proposed by the Bill because the latter complaint and send it to a first-class Magistrate amendments we have made in section 476,

Bill repealing section 477 proposed to raise from Rs. 50 to Rs. 100 the proposal was rejected by the Committee on Enforcement Act, 1921, which enables Clause 151 — It would appear that the retention of section 559 in the Code of Criminal Procedure 1872 was necessitated by provisions being covered by those of section 14 of the General Clauses Act, 1897. We have accordingly inserted the new section 559A proposed by the Bill as section 551 of the original Act.

Clause 152 — We have slightly elaborated the provisions of this clause. We understand that a High Court recently held that it had no power to direct the expunction of objectionable matter. We think it desirable that it should be made clear that this clause is intended to meet such a case.

Clause 153 — We are of opinion that the salutary provisions of section 562 of the Code are capable of extension in more especially in view of the provisions of sub-section (3) of the new section 551 of the Bill. We have accordingly provided that any offender who is over the age of 21 years may be bound over on conviction of any offence not punishable with imprisonment extends, sentence and that all persons under the age of 21 may be so bound over who convicted of offences not punishable with death or transportation for life. We have inserted the proviso to sub-section (3). We think that the High Court should in no case inflict a more severe sentence than could have been inflicted by the Courts which tried the case.

Clause 154 — We think that the penal provision introduced by this clause is out of place in a Code of Procedure. We have proposed an alteration which in part meets this objection.

Clause 155 — We have generally the changes made in Schedule II. We have made certain further amendments consequent upon the changes we have made in the clause which amend section 345 of the Code and the amendments made in the Indian Penal Code by Act XVI of 1921.

Clauses 156 and 157 — We have made the necessary changes in Schedules III and IV of the Code to bring them into line with the amendments which we have made in the body of the Bill.

Clause 158 — In view of our proposals with regard to section 526 we have deleted the form of the bond originally referred to in that section. We have added a form of bond under section 388.

The Bill of 1917 was circulated for opinion as a result of a motion in the Indian Legislative Council on 26th September, 1917. The present Bill contains a few additions to the Bill of 1917. We understand that these dealt with defects in the Code brought to light after the Bill of 1917 had been circulated and that for the most part the opinions of Local Governments and High Courts on these additions were invited by the Government of India. It is, we presume for these reasons that the Legislature did not direct circulation of the present Bill and we do not think that the Bill has now been so altered as to require republication. We recommend that it be passed as now amended.

We consider that the new sub-section (8) proposed by the Bill was unsatisfactory in several respects. The opening words of the sub-section contemplated notification at any stage of the case provided that it was made before the commencement of a day's hearing. But words occurring later in the sub-section indicated that its application was confined to a notification made before the accused was called upon to enter on his defence. The proviso, therefore, which dealt with an intention to apply for a transfer formed after the accused had entered on his defence was not a true proviso to the sub-section. We considered whether sub-section (8) should not refer to another application made at any stage and whether in such case discretion as to an adjournment should not be left with the Court except when the applicant gave security in which case the adjournment should be compulsory, on the whole, however, we have decided in favour of rejecting the proposal to provide for a bond. Apart from other objections we think it was calculated to enhance the delays already involved by section 526. Our amendment of the Bill therefore, provides for a compulsory adjournment at any stage of the case except that a Sessions Court may refuse to adjourn when it is of opinion that the application has been unreasonably delayed.

It was suggested to us that we should add a new clause to section 526 providing for a transfer of a case where the accused has reasonable ground for apprehending that he will not get a fair and impartial trial. We think, however, that the rulings of the High Courts are quite clear on the point and that it would be a mistake to amend the section.

Clause 143—We think that some of the powers which the new sub-section (4) proposes to confer are already provided for by sub-section (2) of section 192. We also think that this new sub-section goes too far in providing unnecessary powers of transfer of cases within the district and actually in enabling a District Magistrate to confer on a Subordinate Magistrate powers which he does not himself possess. We think it sufficient to provide first class Magistrates with a power to withdraw cases or recall cases made over to Magistrates subordinate to them under sub-section (2) of section 192 and we think it unnecessary to confer any further power in respect of the transfer of cases upon Presidency Magistrates.

Our colleague, Sayad Raza Ali, would remove altogether the power of District Magistrates and Sub-Divisional Magistrates to transfer cases under section 528 and would place the power of transfer in the hands of the Sessions Courts. This proposal met with little or no support. We think on the whole that it would cause administrative difficulties and would hamper applications for transfer in view of the fact that there are many districts in which there is no resident Sessions Judge.

Clause 146—We have omitted the proviso contained in sub-section (1) of the new section 539 providing that an accused person shall not be compelled to make an affidavit in the first place it will be extremely difficult to say what the expression 'accused person' and, secondly, the proviso is in conflict with the provisions of sub-section (4) of section 526. We think, however, of the opposition manifested in certain quarters, we think that sub-section proposed new section 539 A might be omitted.

We think it desirable to provide that the copy of the memorandum referred to in section (2) of the new section 539 B shall be given free of cost.

Clause 148—In the new sub-clause (c) to be added to section 545 we refer to the offence specified in section 414 of the Indian Penal Code.

Clause 149—We think the Court should not be bound to exercise the power of the new section 546 A in trivial cases, and have accordingly substituted the word "shall" in sub-section (1) of the proposed new sub-section w.
REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

In the matter of the
T. C. & C. K. C. Barrister at Law, Advocate General, Bengal, was subsequently a Member of the Committee.

4. The change in question can probably be traced to the jealousy with which it was regarded. Over a long time the Courts of the Company exercised no jurisdiction over all the litigation of civil and criminal justice in India being confined in such cases to the Courts of the Presidency towns. The system was undoubtedly based on the idea that the country to the introduction of its subjects into India, provided for the administration of justice by some such analogous to that which existed in England. Moreover, prior to 1834, subjects not in the service of the Crown or Company, were not allowed to sit at more than ten miles from a Presidency town without special permission. On the other hand, the Court of Directors in 1834 gave instructions that British born subjects, if resident in the same tribunals as Indians, they observed that—

The 1819 Act of 1819, after recalling that the removal of restrictions on the on any part of India with the country will render it necessary to provide against any mischief or diversion from the principles direct that you shall make laws for the protection of the Natives of India. The measure which in our view you cannot possibly fulfil unless you render both British and Indian subjects subject to the same judicial control. There can be no equality of protection where justice is not equal nor equal terms accessible to all.

Accordingly Europeans were made amenable to the Civil Courts outside the Presidency towns in 1833 by an Act associated with the name of Lord Macaulay. The question of the trial of Europeans by all the Criminal Courts outside the Presidency town was raised in 1849 by the Government of Lord Dalhousie, and again in 1857. It was decided, however, to await the introduction of the revised Criminal Law in such areas. The previous procedure therefore continued until 1861, that is to say, European British subjects resident outside the Presidency towns were tried by the Supreme Courts which were stationed in the Presidency towns, except in respect of certain minor offences for which they were triable by European Justices of the Peace. In 1861 the Supreme and Sudder Courts were combined into the High Courts of Judicature. English Judges were then enabled to go up-country and try cases against Europeans. Even up to 1872, however, the general principle was that criminal jurisdiction over European British subjects was exercised only by Courts established by the Crown and not by the Courts of the country.

5. In 1872, when Sir James Stephen was Law Member, the jurisdiction of the ordinary Criminal Courts was definitely extended to Europeans, but at the same time special forms of procedure based on English law and limitations of the powers of the Courts were framed for their trial.

6. In 1883 the well known Albert Bill was introduced with the object of giving jurisdiction to Indian Sessions Judges and certain Indian Magistrates to try European British subjects. Owing to the feeling aroused by the Bill, its scope was reduced, and a compromise was effected, a fresh Bill being introduced and passed as Act III of 1884. The main effect of the compromise was that while Indian Sessions Judges and District Magistrates were enabled to try European British subjects the rights to claim a mixed jury, that is, a jury consisting of not less than half Europeans, was allowed in all sessions cases (not merely in those triable by jury in the case of Indians) and also before District Magistrates. The provisions contained in that Act are still in force.
To

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL

1. In accordance with the instructions contained in the Home Department Resolution No F 105, Judicial, dated the 27th December, 1921, we, the members of the Committee appointed by the Government of India to consider the existing racial distinctions in the criminal procedure applicable to Indians and non Indians, and to report to the Government of India the modifications of the law which we recommend should be adopted, have the honour to report for the information of Government our conclusions on the questions requiring examination.

2. In the second Session of the Legislative Assembly, in September, 1921, Mr N M Samarth moved a resolution on the subject. The resolution, after amendment, was passed in the following form —

"That, in order to remove all racial distinctions between Indians and Europeans in the matter of their trial and punishment for offences, a Committee be appointed to consider what amendments should be made in those provisions in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 which differentiate between Indians and European British subjects, Americans and Europeans who are not British subjects in criminal trials and proceedings and to report on the best methods of giving effect to their proposals."

3. Accordingly the Government of India issued a resolution, which, after detailing the resolution passed by the Assembly, proceeded as follows —

"The Governor General in Council has already accepted the principle that it is desirable that there should be equality of status for all people in this country in the matter of criminal trials and proceedings, and has decided to appoint a Committee to consider the existing racial distinctions in the criminal procedure applicable to Indians and non Indians and to report to the Government of India the modifications of the law which they recommend should be adopted.

The Hon'ble Dr Tej Bahadur Sapru, LL.D., Law Member of the Governor-General's Council, has consented to preside over the Committee, and the following have agreed to serve as members —

1. The Hon'ble Sir William Vincent, KCSI, Home Member of the Governor-General's Council
2. Mr S R Das, Standing Counsel Bengal
3. The Hon'ble Mr Justice Shah, Judge of the High Court of Judicature Bombay
4. Mr P E Percival, ICS, MLA
5. Rao Bahadur Tiruvendrakata Rangachar, MLA
6. Mr Narayan Madhav Samarth, MLA
7. Mr W L Carey, a Member of the Bengal Legislative Council
8. Mr Abdul Kasm, MLA
9. Dr H S Gour, MLA
10. Mr Sayid Sultan Ahmad, Government Advocate, Bihar and Orissa
12. Mr E Stuart Roffey, Solicitor, Dibrugarh, and
13. Mr W Muir Masson, Punjab
14. Mr F McCarthy, MLA
15. Lieut. Col H A J Gidney, MLA

Mr Percival will, in addition to his duties as a Member of the Indian Council, not be bound to act as Secretary of the Committee.

The Committee which will submit its report to the Council, will conduct its enquiries in public, in camera if the President considers such a course desirable, and its proceedings may be misconducted in the public interest. Persons who desire to be heard may apply to the Secretary of Home Department, Government of India on the 5th January, 1922. It will conduct its enquiries in public.
7 In the Presidency towns European British subjects have had and have no privileges before the Presidency Magistrates, but they can claim a mixed jury before the High Court.

8 It is interesting to note that, whereas at the time of the Ilbert Bill controversy, the question was whether Indian Judges and Magistrates should try Europeans or not, the subject which excites most interest at the present moment is the right of an European British subject to claim a mixed jury.

9 Prior to 1882 the law provided that in the case of Europeans (not being European British subjects) and Americans in any trial before the Court of Session the accused had the right to be tried by a jury of which not less than half should consist of Europeans or Americans, if such a jury could be procured. By the Code of 1882 this right was retained only in respect of sessions cases normally triable by jury, while in cases triable with the aid of assessor it was provided that half the number of assessors, if practicable and if claimed, should be Europeans or Americans. This provision is still in force.

10 In anticipation of the examination of witnesses who appeared to give evidence before the Committee the Government of India consulted Local Governments on the question under examination. The Committee have also received and studied a large amount of important documentary evidence including memoranda from all the chief European Anglo-Indian and Indian Associations, Chambers of Commerce and other leading Associations in India. Appendix A to this report gives the names of the witnesses who gave evidence before the Committee, and also of those who were invited to give evidence before the Committee but who were unable to do so. We examined at considerable length the twenty-six witnesses some of whom came from distant places at much personal inconvenience. They were from the following provinces: six from the United Provinces, four from Bengal, including one who also represented non-official Europeans in Assam, four from Madras, three each from Bombay, Bihar and Orissa and the Central Provinces, two from the Punjab and one from Burma. They were distributed as follows: thirteen Hindus, seven Europeans, four Muhammadans, one Parsee and one Anglo-Indian. The witnesses were mostly leading members of the legal profession who practise either in the High Courts or in the Moulusul, and we have had the benefit of their valuable experience. Every endeavour was made to ascertain public opinion, and in order to secure the most competent witnesses in the country, invitations to give evidence were issued by the Government of India on three occasions that is in October, December and January last. A statement of all the evidence placed before the Committee is given in Appendix B.

11 The most important provisions requiring examination are those contained in the Criminal Procedure Code, especially Chapter XXXIII and sections 422, 111, 128, 227, 408, 416, 418 and 491 of that Code, together with section 65 (3) of the Government of India Act, section 56 of the Indian Penal Code, the Penal Servitude Act XXIV of 1855 and the European Vagrancy Act IX of 1874.

12-2 The principal distinctions between the provisions relating to Indians and those relating to European British subjects are as follows:

a) By virtue of the provisions of section 443 of the Criminal Procedure Code, European British subjects are not triable by a second or a third-class Magistrate and are triable by a Magistrate of the first class if he is a Justice of the Peace and the case of District and Presidency Magistrates, an European British
(ii) The jurisdiction of Additional and Assistant Sessions Judges over European British subjects is restricted by section 444 of the Code to cases where they are themselves European British subjects and in the case of Assistant Sessions Judges to those who have been Assistant Sessions Judges for at least three years and have been specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government.

(iii) The sentences that may be awarded by first class Magistrates District Magistrates and Courts of Session in the case of European British subjects are limited by sections 446 and 449 of the Code to three months imprisonment and a fine of Rs 1,000 six months imprisonment and a fine of Rs 2,000 and one year's imprisonment and unlimited fine, respectively.

(iv) In the case of trials before a High Court Court of Session or District Magistrate European British subjects are entitled by sections 450 and 451 of the Code to be tried by jury of which not less than half shall be Europeans or Americans.

(v) Section 456 of the Code gives to European British subjects remedies in the nature of habeas corpus which are more extensive than those provided for Indians by Chapter XXXVII.

(vi) Under the provisions of sections 408 and 416 of the Code European British subjects have more extensive rights of appeal in criminal cases than Indians in that they may appeal against sentences in which an appeal would not ordinarily lie, and they also have the option of appealing in the alternative to the High Court or to the Court of Session.

(vii) Under section 111 the provisions of the Code regarding the taking of security for good behaviour in sections 109 and 110 do not apply to European British subjects in cases where they may be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act of 1874 and.

(viii) The definition of High Court is not so wide in the case of European British subjects as it is in the case of Indians.

B The only distinction between the provisions relating to Indians and those relating to Europeans (not being European British subjects) and Americans is that under the provision of section 460 of the Code in every case triable by jury or with the aid of assessors in which an European (not being an European British subject) or an American is an accused person not less than half the number of jurors or assessors must if practicable and if claimed be Europeans or Americans.

13 To turn to the particular changes which are proposed.

The first one is the amendment of the definition of European British subject in section 4 (1) (i) of the Code — It is generally admitted that this is not a satisfactory definition, for instance it includes a non-European domiciled in Natal but not an European domiciled in East Africa. Having regard to all the facts we recommend that the definition of European British subject should be amended by striking out all the words in clause (i) of section 4 (1) (i) after the word Ireland thus omitting all reference to the British Possessions or Dominions outside Great Britain and Ireland. If this alteration is made, there will still
7 In the Presidency towns European British subjects have had and have no privileges before the Presidency Magistrates but they can claim a mixed jury before the High Court.

9 Prior to 1882 the law provided that in the case of Europeans (not being European British subjects) and Americans in any trial before the Court of Session the accused had the right to be tried by a jury of which not less than half should consist of Europeans or Americans if such a jury could be procured. This provision is still in force.

10 In anticipation of the examination of witnesses who appeared to give evidence before the Committee the Government of India consulted Local Governments on the question under examination. The Committee have also received and studied a large amount of important documentary evidence including memoranda from all the chief European Anglo-Indian and Indian Associations Chambers of Commerce and other leading Associations in India. Appendix A to this report gives the names of the witnesses who gave evidence before the Committee and also of those who were invited to give evidence before the Committee but who were unable to do so. They were distributed as follows: thirteen Hindus, seven Europeans, four Muhammadans, one Parsi and one Anglo-Indian. The witnesses were mostly leading members of the legal profession who practise either in the High Courts or in the Mofussil and we have had the benefit of their valuable experience. Every endeavour was made to ascertain public opinion and in order to secure the most competent witnesses in the country, invitations to give evidence were issued by the Government of India on three occasions that is in October, December and January last. A statement of all the evidence placed before the Committee is given in Appendix B.

11 The most important provisions requiring examination are those contained in the Criminal Procedure Code especially Chapter XXXIII and sections 4 22 111 188 275 408 416 418 and 491 of that Code together with section 65 (3) of the Government of India Act section 56 of the Indian Penal Code the Penal Servitude Act XXIV of 1855 and the European Vagrancy Act IX of 1874.

12 The principal distinctions between the provisions relating to Indians and those relating to European British subjects are as follows:

(f) By virtue of the provisions of section 443 of the Criminal Procedure Code European British subjects are not triable by a second or a third class Magistrate and are only triable by a Magistrate of the first class if he is a Justice of the Peace and save in the case of District and Presidency Magistrates an European British subject.
16 Section 111.—We consider that this section should be repealed and that sections 109 and 110 should apply equally to Europeans and Indians. But at the same time we recommend that the European Vagrancy Act IX of 1874 should be retained as it is required in connection with the deportation of undesirable Europeans.

The majority of the members of the Committee consider that an examination should be made of the question whether the period of three years prescribed in section 110 as the period for which imprisonment may be ordered in default of the production of suitable security is not excessive. We are of opinion that the subject is one that deserves the attention of Government and we venture to suggest that Local Governments and High Courts should be consulted thereon.

17 Section 188.—This section is in accordance with the provisions of the Government of India Act, no change is proposed.

18 Section 408 proviso (a)—We are of opinion that this proviso should be repealed.

19 Sections 413, 414, 415 and 416.—We recommend the repeal of section 416. We consider, however, that outside the Presidency towns in the case of all persons both European and Indian there should be an appeal against any sentence of imprisonment passed by a Magistrate. This involves a substantial modification of the general law of the land, and will to a certain extent, increase the work of the Sessions Courts. Nevertheless, we are of opinion on general grounds and apart from the particular case of the European British subject that an appeal should lie against any such sentence. It is to be noted that short sentences of imprisonment should where possible be avoided and the number of sentences of one month and under passed by District Magistrates and first class Magistrates should not as far as we can judge be very large. In the case of a sentence passed in a trial by a Court of Session we would allow no appeal in respect of a sentence of one month or under. The question of an appeal in the case of sentences of imprisonment raises some difficulty in the case of summary trials. It has been suggested that, in order to meet this difficulty, all summary trials should be abolished. We are not, however, prepared to recommend such a serious change in the law of the land. We recommend instead that an appeal should lie against any sentence of imprisonment passed by a Magistrate, trying a case summarily. Appeals lie at present in certain cases against sentences passed in a summary trial and section 264 of the Criminal Procedure Code deals with the record in such cases. Dr Sapru and Sir William Vincent observe that the Government of India will ultimately be guided in a great measure by the opinions of Local Governments and High Courts on the proposal to extend the right of appeal in the cases mentioned in this and in the next sub-paragraphs, as it may involve much increase in judicial labour.
difference between the definition of European British subject in the Criminal Procedure Code and the wording of section 65 (3) of the Government of India Act which runs as follows —

"The Indian Legislature has no power without the previous approval of the Secretary of State in Council to make any law empowering any Court other than a High Court to sentence to the punishment of death any of His Majesty's subjects born in Europe or the children of such subjects or abolishing any High Court."

We are of opinion, however, that the definition of European British subject should not be assimilated to this description in the Government of India Act. We recommend two additions to our proposed definition. The first is that subjects of His Majesty born, naturalised or domiciled in any of the European, American or Australian Possessions or Dominions of His Majesty or in New Zealand or in the Union of South Africa should be classed as European British subjects when they are actually serving in India in His Majesty's British Army, Navy or Air Force. The reason for this addition is that when such persons are transferred to India they have no option. They are not in the same position as those who of their own free choice come to reside in India. The second addition that we recommend is that subjects of His Majesty born naturalised or domiciled in any of the European American or Australian Possessions or Dominions of His Majesty or in New Zealand or in the Union of South Africa who at the date of the adoption of our proposals are in His Majesty's Indian Army, Royal Indian Marine or Indian Air Force should be classed as European British subjects.

Both the proposed additions will affect only a comparatively small number of men. A minority of the Committee, including the Government members, are of opinion that no distinctions should be made between persons serving in the British Forces and those serving in the Indian Forces.

14 The next question is the definition of High Court in section 4 (1) (f) of the Code — We recommend that the definition of High Court should be the same in the case of Indians as in the case of Europeans as the Secretary of State in Council being requested to give his previous approval to this change, having regard to the provisions of section 65 (3) of the Government of India Act. We are, however, of opinion that in regard to certain sections of the Criminal Procedure Code, only the Chartered High Courts, the Chief Court of Lower Burma and the Courts of the Judicial Commissioners of the Central Provinces Oudh, Sindh and Upper Burma should be included in the term "High Court."

15 Section 22 — We do not think it necessary to express any opinion on the question whether Justices of the Peace should be retained outside the Presidency towns. We are, however, of opinion that whether the title is retained or not, it should not be a qualification for the trial of an European British subject. We are also of opinion that such appointment outside the Presidency towns should not be restricted to Europeans. In regard to the trial of European British subjects generally we consider that outside the Presidency towns only distinction should be that the Magistrate in question, if the accused so desires should not be below the rank of a first class Magistrate. We recognise that in this respect a slight distinction will still remain between European British subjects and Indians, but we believe that no objection will be taken on that account so far as offences punishable with imprisonment are concerned. We recommend, however, that offences punishable with fine not exceeding Rs 50 only (and no other punishment) in respect of which an European is accused may be tried by any Magistrate having jurisdiction normally in respect of such offences.
REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

16 Sect. 111—We consider that this section should be repealed and that 109 and 110 should apply equally to Europeans and Indians. In the meantime we recommend that the European Vagrancy Act IY ch 19 retained as it is required in connection with the deported Europeans.

The majority of the members of the Committee consider that an (if) of excessive is made of the question whether the period of three years prescribed in ch 110 of which imprisonment may be ordered in default of the production of a just and we venture to suggest that Local Governments and High Courts should Saying of restricions on appeal sentence deals from Prion to European subjects.

District Magistrates and first class Magistrates should be prepared to recommend such serious change in the law of appeal should be against any sentence of imprisonment summarily. Appeals lie even at present in all cases.

Dr Sapru and Sir William Vincent observe that the right of appeal in the cases mentioned in the 18th section 264 of the Criminal Procedure Act also a great measure by the opinions of local Governments of the right of appeal in the cases mentioned in the 18th section 264 of the Criminal Procedure Act also.

22 Sect on 440—In our opinion District Magistrates and first-class Magistrates (whether empowered under section 30 or not) should not be allowed to pass on European British subjects any sentence other than a sentence of imprisonment which may extend to two years, including such solitary confinement as is authorised by law or of fine which may extend to Rs. 1000. It will be observed that these are the limits of the ordinary powers of a District or first-class Magistrate with the exception that they do not include a sentence of whipping. This is subject to our previous observations in paragraph 19. The majority of the Committee are of opinion that sections 30 and 34 should be repealed on the ground that a sentence of more than two years imprisonment should not be passed without the assistance of a jury or assessors.

Dr Sapru and Sir William Vincent consider that the Government of India must ultimately be guided in a large measure by the opinions of the Local Governments and the High Courts on the question whether it is practicable to repeal those sections. Some members of the Committee are of opinion that if after enquiry it is decided to retain these sections they should apply equally to Europeans and to Indians.

Commitment to be to the High Court in certain cases

23 Sections 447 and 448—These sections should be repealed.

24 Section 449—We are of opinion that Sessions Courts should have power to pass the same sentences on Europeans as on Indians. Accordingly Sessions Judges and Additional Sessions Judges should have power to pass sentences of death in the case of Europeans and Indians alike subject to confirmation by the High Court. This provision is to be read together with our proposal that there should be a mixed jury, that is, a jury of not less than half European or Indians as the case may be in trials before the High Court and Sessions Court. In the very limited number of cases in the Sessions Court in which Europeans will be tried without a jury, they will be tried with European assessors. We develop this point later. We adopt the principle that a Sessions Judge or Magistrate should have power to pass the same sentence in the case of an European as of an Indian and that safeguards should be obtained by other methods than by restricting the punishment which the presiding Judge or Magistrate can inflict. We recommend, therefore, that the Secretary of State in Council be requested to give his previous approval in accordance with section 63 (3) of the Government of India Act to this change in the law as in the case of Magistrates we make an exception in respect of the punishment of whipping.

25 Section 450—The most difficult question for the Committee to decide is that of the trial by jury of European British subjects. This is the point on which non-official European opinion is most emphatic namely that it is essential that a mixed jury should be retained. We have decided accordingly that the mixed jury should remain both in the High Court and in the Sessions Court in all cases which are to be tried by jury under our proposals subject, however, to certain provisos and safeguards namely—

I. The same law as to the composition of the jury shall apply to Indians as to Europeans, that is, the majority of the jury shall consist of persons who are not Europeans or Americans. That is to say, it apply to the High Court also.
II. There shall be a right of appeal both on law and facts both from conviction and acquittal, in the case of Europeans and Indians alike, except where the jury are unanimous and the Judge agrees with the verdict of the jury. The further conditions of the appeal are described in paragraph 20 above. This proposal is recommended as an alteration of the general law of the land, but in particular it is intended to form an integral part of our proposal to maintain the inuked Jury.

III. The High Court Special Jury List should, in our opinion, be revised and it should no longer be limited to 200 Europeans and 200 non-Europeans. It should include all who are qualified, to whatever a monthly they may belong. This revision will probably increase the proportion of non-Europeans in the list. This proposal involves the repeal of section 312 of the Code.

In the following respects the existing law should be maintained, namely, the number of the jury in the trial of appeals, the number required for conviction or acquittal in the High Court and in the Sessions Court will continue unchanged; and right of revision in the Sessions Court under section 307 will also remain as it is; the number of the jury in the trial of an appeal, as it is proposed to grant a right of appeal from the verdict of the High Court and the judgment thereon both on points of law and of fact in certain cases tried in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction by a High Court, a certificate from the Advocate-General, as laid down in the Letters Patent, will not be necessary in every case of appeal from a decision in the High Courts of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay. This proposal will involve the amendment of the provisions of the Letters Patent by the Indian Legislature.

The exceptions that we propose in regard to the number of the jury are:

(i) In the Sessions Court the number should be any even number from five to nine which the Local Government may select. Thus "five" should be substituted for "three" in section 274, as the minimum number of the jury in a Sessions Court, and

(ii) in murder cases before the Sessions Court we are of opinion that the number of the jury should if practicable be nine.

Another difficulty arises from the fact that an European can claim a trial by jury in any case in a Court of Session, whereas a very large proportion of the cases in Courts of Session in which Indians are accused are tried with the aid of assessors. To meet this difficulty we consider it necessary to make special provision for cases in a Court of Session in which racial considerations between Europeans and Indians are involved, and also to substitute for the trial by assessors in those cases in Courts of Session where racial considerations do not appear.

Our proposals are:

(i) In any district in which for any class of offence Indians are normally tried by a Court of Session by assessor, the accused whether Indian or European shall be entitled to claim a trial by jury, that is to say a jury consisting of not less than half European assessors.

(ii) In any district in which for any class of offence Indians are normally tried by a Court of Session by assessor, but in which racial considerations between Europeans and Indians are involved the accused whether Indian or European shall be entitled to claim a mixed jury on the ground of the existence of such racial considerations. The Sessions Judge will decide the preliminary question whether in any particular case racial considerations are involved and no appeal or revision shall lie against his decision on this preliminary point. He will have to decide who is the person really aggrieved. The exact wording of the provision will be a matter for the consideration of the draftsman but where the accused and the complainant are of different nationalities that is where one is an European and one an Indian racial considerations shall be deemed to arise.

(iii) In any district in which for any class of offence Indians are normally tried in a Court of Session with the aid of assessors and in which no racial considerations are involved the accused whether Indian or European shall be tried with assessors who if the accused so claims shall all be of the nationality of the accused. We add the further recommendation that in all cases tried with the aid of assessors there shall be if possible four and in any case not less than three assessors. The existing provision in section 284 is that two or more assessors shall be chosen as the judge thinks fit.

It will be seen that so far as the European is concerned his right of trial by jury will be taken away only in a limited number of cases in which no racial considerations are involved and in such cases instead of being tried by a jury of five (the usual number in the Court of Session) of which he can claim that not less than three shall be Europeans he will be tried probably with four and in any case with not less than three assessors who will all if he so claims be Europeans. In the case of an Indian he will be able to claim a mixed jury in any case where racial considerations are involved and in any case tried with assessors there will be not less than three Indian assessors.

27 In warrant cases outside the Presidency towns in which racial considerations between Europeans and Indians are involved the accused and the complainant shall each have the right to apply to the trying Magistrate on the ground of the existence of such racial considerations for committal to the Sessions Court for trial by a jury of which not less than half shall be of the nationality of the accused. If the Magistrate decides in favour of the applicant that is to say, if he finds that racial considerations are involved he shall proceed to make a preliminary inquiry in cases tried by the Sessions Court. If the Magistrate finds that no racial considerations are involved the applicant shall have the right to appeal to the Sessions Court against the decision of the Magistrate on this preliminary point. We would give no right of appeal or revision from the decision of the Sessions Court on the preliminary point as to whether in any particular case racial considerations are involved or not. We have already in paragraph 16 indicated what we mean by racial considerations and when they shall be deemed to exist.

The Honble Sir William Vincent would prefer to give the right mentioned in this paragraph to the accused only and not to the complainant also.

28 Similarly in summons cases outside the Presidency towns we are of opinion that where—

(i) racial considerations as already defined between Europeans and Indians are involved and also

(ii) the offence is punishable with imprisonment the accused and the complainant shall each have the right to apply to the trying Magistrate that the case be sent to a Bench of two Magistrates of the first class one Indian and one European.
trial, on the ground of the existence of such considerations. If the trying Magistrate decides against the applicant on this preliminary point, the applicant shall have the right to appeal to the Sessions Court against the decision of the Magistrate on the point.

When the case is tried by the abovementioned Bench, in the event of a difference of opinion between the Magistrates the case, with the opinions of the Magistrates will be laid before the Sessions Judge, who, after taking such further evidence, if any, as he may think fit, shall pass such judgment, sentence or order in the case as he thinks fit and is according to law. From the decision of such a Bench there shall be an appeal in accordance with the ordinary law. An appeal against the Sessions Judge will lie to the High Court if an appealable sentence is passed by him.

Jury before District Magistrate

29 Section 451 — We are of opinion that trial by jury before Magistrates should be abolished.

Details of procedure in cases in which European British subjects are concerned

Sections 452 to 455 inclusive — Consequential amendments only

Sections 456 to 458 to be read with section 491 — We are of opinion that the rights which Europeans enjoy of the nature of habeas corpus should be extended to Indians throughout British India. In this and other matters we would not interfere with the existing procedure in respect of Indian States.

Applications of Acts conferring jurisdiction

Section 489 — Consequential amendments only

30 Sections 460 and 461 — These sections deal with Europeans (not being European British subjects) and Americans. We are of opinion that unless any of the privileges in regard to any such persons are found to be based on treaty, they should be abolished.

Trials of Europeans or Americans

Sections 462, 463 and 534 — Consequential amendments only

31 The Penal Servitude Act XXIV of 1855 and section 56 of the Indian Penal Code — We are of opinion that section 56 of the Indian Penal Code and Act XXIV of 1855 should be repealed. The commutation of a sentence of transportation can be effected under sections 401 and 402 of the Criminal Procedure Code and the ordinary Prison Rules which apply to Indians and Europeans alike. We do not take objection to the commutation of sentences of transportation in the case of Europeans but we are of opinion that statutory distinctions in this respect are not necessary. We are informed that the question of abolishing sentences of transportation as a form of punishment is under consideration.

32 European Vagrancy Act IX of 1874 — It will be for the draftsman to consider whether any change is necessary in the European Vagrancy Act, having regard to the proposed repeal of section 111 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

33 No change is necessary in the provisions relating to Presidency Magistrates.
34 To put our main proposals in respect of the modifications of the Criminal Procedure Code, into tabular form, their effect will be—

*Note—Clauses I, IV, V, VI, VII and VIII apply only outside Presidency towns.*
We also propose the repeal of section 460 which provides for a special procedure in the case of Europeans (not being British subjects) and Americans.

30 We regret that one member of the Committee Mr Stuart Roffey a representative of the non-official Europeans of Assam owing to private and personal reasons was unable to attend the meetings of the Committee and had to resign his seat thereon.

Some members of the Committee were unable to attend our final meetings.

36 In conclusion we desire to place on record our deep sense of obligation to our colleague Mr Percival ICS MLA who has throughout the proceedings of this Committee acted as Secretary and brought to bear upon the work infinite patience and great industry which has been of great assistance to us in the preparation of this report. We also desire to express our acknowledgments to Mr Tonkinson Joint Secretary in the Home Department for the assistance he has given us generally.

142 § 103, Note 8—

Both the letter and spirit of s 103 require that the Panchas should actually accompany the persons making the search and should be actual witnesses to the fact of finding of the property. It is not sufficient that the Panchas should be merely summoned and kept present outside a building while the search is being carried on within it and then called in to see what has been found. 32 Bom. L R 344

161 § 112, Preliminary Note—

A Magistrate acting under s 112 is a Court to show cause under s. 107 is not entitled to a copy of the written information by the Police on which the order is based as it does not form part of the record. A. I R, 1930 Madras 975

240 § 144, Note 16—

Where a Magistrate is formulating an order under s 144 it is incumbent upon him to show two things plainly, first of all the thing which is prohibited and secondly the persons who are prohibited. It is not fair to leave people in doubt as to whether they are prohibited from doing a thing or not. The public generally can only be prohibited under s 144 (3). 33 Bom. L R 59.

325 § 162, Note 6—

An oral statement made by any person to a Police Officer during investigation cannot be used for contradicting a defence witness. 4 Lucknow 729 = A. I R, 1930, Oodh. 60.

326 § 163, Note 10—

It is contrary to law to make use of Police Diary for the purpose of corroborating the evidence of prosecution witnesses as given in Court. 1931 Criminal Cases 192.

328 § 162, Note 14—

When examining witnesses for the prosecution the Counsel for the accused asked for copies of the statements made by those witnesses to the Police. On referring to the Police diaries the Court found that the statements, of these witnesses were taken jointly with other witnesses who were tendered for cross-examination but were not cross-examined. Held that the Court in these circumstances could refuse to supply copies of the statements made to the Police. 31 Cr. L J. 461 = 122 I. C. 491.

333 § 167, Note 9—

(a) A remand to Police custody ought not to be granted by a Magistrate without satisfying himself as to its necessity and the period of remand ought also to be restricted to the necessities of the case. (b) The mere fact that his relations have been granted an interview is no excuse for refusing an interview of the accused with his Counsel. (c) An accused person is entitled to be represented by Counsel in proceedings before a Magistrate under s 167. A. I R. 1931 Lahore 89.

418 § 181 (2) Note 7 (4) and s 179—

The Jurisdiction to try an offence of Criminal misappropriation or Criminal Breach of trust is governed by s 181 (2) and not by s 179. Further, if there is a duty enjoined upon the agent or the factor to render accounts at another place, the failure to render such accounts or rendering of false accounts at such a place does not confer jurisdiction under s. 179 upon the Magistrate at the latter place. 32 Bom. L R. 1195 (P.B.) (46 Bom. 641 overruled).

An oral statement made by any person to a Police Officer during investigation cannot be used for contradicting a defence witness 4 Lucknow 726 = A. I. R. 1930, Oudh. 60.

326 S. 182, Note 10—

It is contrary to law to make use of Police Diary for the purpose of corroborating the evidence of prosecution witnesses as given in Court. 1931 Criminal Cases 192.

328 S. 162, Note 14—

When examining witnesses for the prosecution the Counsel for the accused asked for copies of the statements made by those witnesses to the Police On referring to the Police diaries the Court found that the statements, of these witnesses were taken jointly with other witnesses who were tendered for cross-examination but were not cross-examined Held, that the Court in these circumstances could refuse to supply copies of the statements made to the Police 31 Cr. L. J. 451 = 123 I. C. 431.

353 S. 167, Note 9—

(a) A remand to Police custody ought not to be granted by a Magistrate without satisfying himself as to its necessity and the period of remand ought also to be restricted to the necessities of the case (b) The mere fact that his relations have been granted an interview is no excuse for refusing an interview of the accused with his Counsel (c) An accused person is entitled to be represented by Counsel in proceedings before a Magistrate under s 167 A. I. R. 1931 Lahore 99.

418 S. 181 (2) Note 7 (t) and s 179—

The jurisdiction to try an offence of Criminal misappropriation or Criminal Breach of trust is governed by s 181 (2) and not by s 179 Further, if there is a duty enjoined upon the agent or the factor to render accounts at another place, the failure to render such accounts or rendering of false accounts at such a place does not confer jurisdiction under s 179 upon the Magistrate at the latter place. 32 Bom. L. R. 1195 (B.B.) (46 Bom. 641 overruled).
478. B. 195, Note 105—

When offence is not committed by parties to any proceeding while it is pending, in respect of a document produced s. 195 does not operate as a bar to cognizance of offence. 51 C. L. J. 51.

514. B. 203, Note 20—

A second complaint for an alleged offence is entertainable by a Magistrate and it is not necessary to get a previous order of dismissal set aside by a Superior Court before lodging a second complaint. It is entertainable even when the previous order of dismissal is confirmed by a Superior Court in revision. 52 C. L. J. 171 = A. I. R. 1930 Lahore 879.

623. B. 250, Note 28—

This section is not applicable to offences triable by a Court of Sessions according to Column 8 of Schedule II of this Code. An order of compensation in respect of such an offence is without jurisdiction. A. I. R. 1930 Lahore 432.

641. B. 257, Note 5—

A Magistrate has a large discretion under s. 257. When however the accused clearly explained that he wanted an adjournment because his vakil was ill, and if the witnesses are subsequently present there is no reason for not letting them be cross-examined. 124 Ind. Cases 606.

717. B. 300, Note 2—

If the jurymen were not able to come to a decision or agree upon a verdict before retiring, the law requires that they should retire to consider their verdict and it follows that they should all be in their retiring room together during the whole of the time between the moment of their retirement and the moment when their verdict is taken. The jury are not to be allowed to separate until they have considered and returned their verdict. 125 Ind. Cases 753.

722. B. 303, Note 1—

The object of s. 303 is merely to enable the Court to ascertain whether the jury intended to bring in a verdict of guilty or not guilty and for no other reason is a Judge entitled to interrogate the jury after they have given their verdict. 34 C. W. N. 233.

767. B. 312, Note 10—

Provided the accused is given opportunity to explain the evidence against him it is immaterial whether he is examined before or after framing the charge. 32 Bom. L. R. 598.

768. B. 312, Note 2—

It is the duty of the Magistrate when dealing with ignorant individuals accused of technical offences to go very thoroughly into the evidence and where they are not defended by advocates to give them some assistance in putting up defence pleas. A. I. R. 1930, Rangoon 539.

806. B. 421, Note 7—

Once a plea is heard and the record called for, then though in many cases it may be useful to hear the plea again yet there is no illegality in summarily dismissing the appeal without hearing the plea again. 9 Patna 501.

102. B. 423 (5), Note 22—

S. 490 (5) cannot constitute a bar to District Magistrate's assent under s. 424 in case of a petition by a subordinate Magistrate. The Local Government and the District Magistrate are distinct and non interchangeable terms. The mere fact that he may be in the executive capacity to move the Local Government to appeal under s. 490 (5) cannot bar his taking action under s. 479. A. I. R. 1933, Allahabad 761.
Section 439 need not be read subject to s 417 and a reference can be entertained when the Local Government has not been moved to prefer an appeal or having been moved has refused to prefer an appeal. A. I. R. 1930, Lahore 159.

976. S. 439, Note 81—

A private complainant can apply in revision to the High Court for enhancement of sentence 1930 A. L. J. 1224.

977. S. 439 (6), Note 87—

When an appeal has been dismissed either after hearing or summarily, it is not open to the accused, in showing cause why the sentence should not be enhanced, to go again into the merits of the case 32 Bom. L. R. 1236.

1052. S. 491—

The High Court has power to revise the sentences of Military Courts if a Validating Act is not passed. It is for the Crown to prove the necessity and legality of any sentences by Courts Civil or Military, if not made under the ordinary law then under any Act of Indemnity such as an Ordinance 32 Bom. L. R. 1618.

1057. S. 511, Note 15—

The liability of sureties to produce an accused person does not terminate by the mere fact that the accused is kept under arrest for a day or two between the date of the bond and the date when he was to be produced in Court. The liability of the surety does not terminate if the production of the accused becomes impossible, owing to his escape from custody during the intermediate arrest A. L. R. 1931, Patna 19.

1128. S. 526 (3), Note 39—

Since 1923 proceedings under s 476 are taken only by the Court in the interest of justice when it thinks fit to do so. It is not now open to a private person to institute proceedings after taking sanction from the Court under s 195. A private person may move the Court to take such proceedings but a person moving the Court to take such action is not a person interested within the meaning of s 526 (3) 34 C. W. N. 935.

1155. S. 537, Note 12—

Where accused persons were tried jointly under ss 302 and 304 and other sections of the Indian Penal Code and the jury constituted only of seven persons and not of nine persons as required by law Held that the jury was illegally constituted and the illegality cannot be cured by s 537. The fact that no appeal was preferred against the acquittal under s 302 and 304 makes no difference, all the accused were affected by the illegality 34 C. W. N. 765 = 81 C. L. J. 578.

(a) the Commissioners of Police in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, or the Police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay,

(b) heads of villages in the Presidency of Fort St George or

(c) village Police-officers in the Presidency of Bombay

Provided that the Local Government may, if it thinks fit [ ] by notification in the Official Gazette, extend any of the provisions of this Code, with any necessary modifications, to such excepted persons Extent I.—Local.

Notes.—1 British India shall mean all territories and places within Her (now His) Majesty’s dominions which are for the time being governed by Her Majesty through the Governor-General of India or through any Governor or other officer subordinate to the Governor-General of India. General Clauses Act X of 1897, s 3 (7). See also s. 15 of the Penal Code

* For Statement of Objects and Reasons see General of India 1897 Part V p 342; for Report of the Select Committee see ibid.

† Part V p 19 and for Proceedings in Council see ibid. 1897 Part VI pp 238 and 254 and ibid 1899 pp 21 101 and 15

† The words with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council were omitted by the Devolution on Act XXXVII of 1920
'British India' is not synonymous with 'British Possession.' As the Native States and the tributary Mahals are not governed through the Governor-General of India, they are not British India and the Code as such does not extend to them. So it does not extend to the Civil Station at Rajkot, 10 B. 188; the Wadhuwan Civil Station, 16 Bom. L. R. 876; the territory of Mohurband, 8 C. 993; the tributary Mahal of Koyynur, 16 C. 667; and the lands occupied by the Hyderabad State Railway, 23 C. 20 (P.C.). The Civil and Military station of Bangalore is not British India, 12 M. 39. See also 5 Bom. L. R. 873.

2. Places to which the Code has been extended.—(a) Schedule Districts in Ganjam and Vizagapatam (Fort St. George Gazette, 1898, Pt I, p 306), 23 M. L. 670 = 12 M. L. T. 601 = 13 Cr. L. J. 850; (b) Laccadive Islands (13 M. 353), (c) the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, (d) Sonthal Purgans (Calcutta Gazette, 1898, Pt I, p 668). See 12 C. 338, (e) Angul District (Calcutta Gazette, 1890, Pt I, p 798), (f) Districts of Hazaribagh Lohardaga (now Ranchi) Mandhum, Palaman, Purgana Dhalhbum and the Kolhan in the Singhbhum District, (Calcutta Gazette, 1898 Pt I p 714), (g) Purgana of Manpur, (h) British Baluchistan (Gazette of India, 1898, Pt II, p 221); (i) Chittagong Hill Tracts (s 4 of the Chittagong Hill Tracts Regulation I of 1900, see however, 27 C. 654), (j) Upper Burma including the Shan States, (k) Cochin and Chin Hills (portions of the Code are applicable to certain Hill tribes, see Burma Gazette, 1898, Pt I, p 322 and Burma Code Edition, 1899, pp 628 and 629), (l) Island of Pentam, 10 B. 253.

The Code has also been extended to the British Protectorates on the East Coast of Africa (order of Council 1897), Somaliland (ord-r, 1899), the Persian Coast and Islands (1897) and Zanzibar (by an order in Council of 1884, under which Zanzibar is to be treated as a District in Bombay, the Judicial Assistant being the District Magistrate, the Consul General, the Sessions Judge, the High Court of Bombay, the High Court and the Secretary of State, or with his assent the Governor General in Council, the Authorities to exercise the powers of a Local Government and of the Governor General in Council).

In 24 B. 471, it was held regarding Muscat that though under certain circumstances in virtue of an order in Council of 1876, the Bombay High Court is vested with Original Criminal Jurisdiction, in the exercise of which it would apply the provisions of this Code, it had no Appellate or Revisional Jurisdiction.

3. Places where the Code is no longer in force.—The Gara Hills, the Khasia and Jaintia Hills, the Naga Hills, the North Cachar Subdivision of the Cachar District, the Ahir Hill Tracts in the Noong District, the Debrigarh Frontier Tracts in the Lakhimpur Districts, the Lushai Hills (see Assam Gazette, 1898, Pt II, p 783), and the North Cachar Hills, 26 C. 374.

4. Places outside British India in which the Code is in force.—As regards Native States, see Macpherson's List of British Enactments in Force in Native States, wherein he mentions amongst others (a) the lands occupied by the following Railways passing through Native States —Madras Railway (Mysore), B. B.C.I., G I.P. (Kurunduwur) Nagpur and Chhattisgarh (Khairagarh and Nandgaon), Rajputana Maha Bhaunagar Goudal, Sindhe (Dhalpur, Gwalior) Bhopal, Sindhe Pishin, (b) the Cantonments of Quetta Mittun, Secunderabad, Dihis, Mhow, Nagod, Naogon, Namach, Satna, Abu, Deoli (c) the District of Quetta, (d) the Silt Sources in the Rajputana Agency, (e) the Rajputana Purans under British administration and some Native States in Rajputana Agency, (f) the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, (g) the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, 12 M. 39; (h) Mysore (i) Kashmir (with certain limitations so far as European British subjects and their native servants, being British subjects, are concerned).

5. Code applicable to all trials in British India though offences committed on High Seas.—Trial of a British seaman for an offence committed on a British ship on High Seas must be conducted under this Code, though the offence charged must be one under English Law, 21 C. 782; 1 B. L. R. O. Cr. 1; 7 B. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 89; 8 B. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 63; 15 C. 238. As to substantive law, however, see 14 B. 227 and 25 B. 636 where it was held that the Indian Penal Code applied.

6. Specific provisions to the contrary, see ss 54, 55, 56, 67, 68, 83, 84, 85, 86, 95, 102, 127, 374, 375, 376 and Sch II, col 3, infra: But see s 2 (1) of the City of Bombay Police Act IV of 1902, under which ss 54, 55, 56 and 33, infra are no longer applicable to the Police in the City of Bombay.

7. Special Law is a law applicable to a particular subject, s 41, IPC. The Coramns Act IV of 1871, is an illustration of a Special Law, 31 C. 1; 16 B. 159; 2 Ind. Jur. (N. B.) 101.

8. Local Law is a law applicable only to a particular part of British India, s 42, IPC, e.g., the law for the suppression of outrages in Malabar, cut rules made under Local Laws are not Local Laws, 22 P. R. 1894.
The Sind Frontier Regulation (III of 1892) is a Special and Local Law conferring special jurisdiction on the District Magistrate and laying down a special form of procedure and therefore the provisions of this Code cannot be invoked to control the proceedings of the District Magistrate, 5 B. L. R. 103 = 12 Cr. L. J. 558.

9. Special Jurisdiction—e.g (1) that conferred by Mad Act XIV of 1839, s 3, regarding the administration of Criminal Justice in the Vizagapatam Agency Tract, 14 M. 121; (2) by ss 20 to 23 of the Cattle Trespass Act 1 of 1871 (except in so far as the definition of offence s 4 (d), para 2, post is made to include a complaint under s 20 of that Act), 23 C. 300, 34 C. 926; (3) by Bom Act VIII of 1867 (Village Police), except where the Code contains a specific provision to the contrary, 19 B. 612.

10. Special Power—e.g (1) power vested in the Governor General in Council to make rules conferring Original Criminal Jurisdiction on Indian Marine Courts by the Indian Marine Act XIV of 1897, s 70 (2), the Common Law power vested in the Chartered High Courts as Courts of Record, to punish for contempt (10 C. 109 P.C), (3) the power of superintendence under s 15 of the Charter Act and that is to say, powers of revision over proceedings of the Subordinate Courts 12 C. W. N. 678 = 7 Cr. L. J. 499; (4) the power to transfer Criminal Cases under s. 29 of the Letters Patent, 6 M. 32, (5) the power conferred on second class Magistrates by the Bombay Abkars Act V of 1878 s 3, cl 5 and s 56, 10 B. 181. See also 25 B. 667.

11. Special Form of Procedure—e.g that prescribed by Act V of 1869, the Indian Articles of War for the trial of Military offences—See the Criminal Law Amendment Act XIV of 1900 in Appendix I.

12. Effect of transfer of territory from British India to Native State Pendentie lite—In 34 A. 118 it was held that the British Sessions Court had jurisdiction to proceed with the trial of an offence committed in territory forming part of British India at the date of offence and at the date of commitment to sessions, but transferred to a Native State before the case came on for trial In 33 A. 578 the transfer took place after a conviction but before the appeals therefrom were heard and it was held that the Appellate Court had jurisdiction to hear the appeal.

12A. Applicability of the Code to cases under an Ordinance—Ordinance issued by Governor General in Council is a law and arrangement of it is an offence, which must be dealt with according to the provisions of Criminal Procedure Code in the absence of any rules made by the Governor General 10 P. R. (Cr) 1916.

13. What proceedings the Code governs.—It regulates only criminal proceedings Quaque, whether proceedings under section 2 (1) and (3) Workmen's Breach of Contract Act XIII of 1859 are criminal Held, that section 370, infra did not apply to such proceedings 27 Cal. 131.

But 43 All. 281 has held that the case under section 2 of the Workmen's Breach of Contract Act XIII of 1859 is triable summarily under the provisions of section 260 of the Code of Criminal Procedure = All. L. Journal, Volume XIX, p 22 See 33 Bom. 22, 25 which holds the contrary view.

Extent II—Personal.

Notes—13. Police and Commissioners of Police—The Code has been specially extended to the Police or to 31 C. 557. As to Calcutta Police (see Benga.

As to Bombay Police (see Acts XIII of 1856, XLVII of 1860 and Bombay Acts II of 1879, IV of 1882, XVI of 1895 and IV of 1902), (2) It applies to the Police, but not to the Commissioner of Police, Madras (See Madras Act III of 1888, Madras Code, 3rd Edition, p 844, (3) Orton specially extended to Calcutta and Bombay Police, ss 42, 44, 51, 55, 56, 63, 83, 84, 85, 89, 107, 202 and col. 3 of Sch II, also s 155, 15 C. 555 and 11 B. 493. Ss 356 and 397 have been by notification under the proviso, extended to the Commissioner of Police for the town of Calcutta. (See Calcutta Gazette of the 23rd March, 1904) As to Bombay, see Note 6, supra.

14. Madras Village Headmen.—In the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon them by ss 10-14 of Mad Reg XI of 1816 and s 6 of Mad Reg IV of 1821 (Madras Code 3rd Edition, pp 59 and 77) to try petty cases of assault, abuse, theft, etc., the Code does not govern the Village Headmen See Weir II, p. 1. In 15 L. 131 and 11 M. 375 it was held that ss 480-482 do not apply to Village Magistrates.

15. Bombay Village Police-officer.—See Bombay Act VIII of 1867, ss 14-16 and s, 37 of Bombay Reg XII of 1857, also 19 B. 812.

16. Proceedings before village Police patel could be dealt with by the High Court under the general power of superintendence conferred by the Letters Patent and not under this Code which is not applicable. In re Vasudeo Pandit, 21 Bom. L. R. 274
2. (Repeal of enactments, notifications, etc, under repealed Acts, Pending cases)
Repealed by the Repealing and Amending Act X of 1914

(1) Generally legislative enactments relating to procedure have no retrospective force See on the subject, 2 B 185, 2 A, 175; 20 M, 431, 2 C, 225, and 25 C, 833

(2) Effect of repeal.—See s 6 of General Clauses Act X of 1897

3. (1) In every enactment passed before this Code comes into force, in which reference is made to, or to any chapter or section of the Code of Criminal Procedure Act XXV of 1861, or Act X of 1872, or Act X of 1882, or to any other enactment hereby repealed, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be taken to be made to this Code or to its corresponding chapter or section

(2) In every enactment passed before this Code comes into force, the expressions

Explanations in former Acts

‘officer exercising (or ‘having’) the powers (or ‘the full powers’) of a Magistrate,” “Subordinate Magistrate, first class,” and “Subordinate Magistrate, second class,” shall respectively be deemed to mean “Magistrate of the first class
Magistrate of the second class,” and “Magistrate of the third class,” the expression ‘Magistrate of a division of a district,” shall be deemed to mean “Sub-divisional Magistrate,’ the expression ‘Magistrate of the district’ shall be deemed to mean “District
Magistrate, the expression ‘Magistrate of Police,” shall be deemed to mean “President
Magistrate, and the expression ‘Joint Sessions Judge’ shall mean “Additional Sessions Judge”

Note.—Cf s 8 of General Clauses Act X of 1897

1. So far as may be practicable—These words refer to the repealed Acts only to the extent of any necessary inconsistency with the provisions of another Act See 12 M 84 (F.B.)

2 A Magistrate of Police—This expression in s 1 of Act XIII of 1859 (Breach of Contract by Workman) means Presidency Magistrate See 25 C 637 where it was further held that a Presidency Magistrate of Calcutta may lawfully take cognisance under s 1 of the Act of a complaint in respect of a contract made in Calcutta, the breach of which has been committed beyond the local jurisdiction of his Court See p lxxi,
Appendix VII

Definitions

4. (1) In this Code the following words and expressions have the meanings unless a different intention appears from the subject or context —

(a) ‘Advocate-General’ includes also a Government Advocate, or where, there is no
Advocate-General or Government Advocate, such officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

Note.—Includes.—Where a definition includes certain persons or things it does not necessarily exclude other person or things not so included, 4 C 483 at p 493, See also 2 M 5 22 B 235

‘Bailable offence.’

(b) ‘Bailable offence’ means an offence shown as bailable in the second schedule, or which is made bailable by any other law for the time being in force, and ‘ non bailable offence’ means any other offence

Note.—See Ch XXXIX for provisions as to bail

(c) ‘Charge’ includes any head of charge when the charge contains more heads than one

Note.—This definition adopts the view of Scott J, in 8 B. 200.

Note.—The words in bracket were substituted for the words “Recorder of Rangoon” by the Lower Burma Courts Act VI of 1900 (See s. 47 and Sch I)
(d) 'Clerk of the Crown' includes any officer specially appointed by the Chief Justice to discharge the functions given by this Code to the Clerk of the Crown.

Note—Functions given to the Clerk of the Crown—See ss. 216 226 319 314 and 539 also ss 211 and 218, infra.

(e) A cognizable offence means an offence for and cognizable case means a case in which a Police-officer within or without the Presidency towns may in accordance with the second schedule or under any law for the time being in force arrest without warrant.

Notes—1. Under any law—The offence of making in contravention of s 3 any such piece as is mentioned in that section shall be a cognizable offence s 5 Act I of 1869 (The Metal Tokens Act). So also one under s 43 of Bombay Salt Act II of 1890.

2. Offence cognisable even if power of arrest limited to particular Police officers—Under the Bengal Gambling Act II of 1867 it was held in 27 C. 334 that the words a Police officer in the clause do not mean any and every Police officer The power of arrest may be limited to any particular class of Police officers.

The offences under ss 4 and 5 of the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act were held cognizable offences within the meaning of s 4 (1) of this Code 50 Bom 315—23 Bom C R 272.

3. Power of arrest must be unqualified—The power of arrest without warrant referred to in this clause is an unqualified power and not a conditional power as in s 24 of Act XIII of 1857 (Opina Act I of 1878 Lower Provinces), which only gives right to a Police-officer to arrest without warrant in case the accused does not furnish the security required by that section 24 C. 691.

4. See memorandum of chief cognizable offences under s 154 of infra

Commissioner of Police

(f) Commissioner of Police includes a Deputy Commissioner of Police.

(g) Complaint means the allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate with a view to his taking action under this Code that some person whether known or unknown has committed an offence but it does not include the report of a Police-officer.

Notes—1. Interpretation—In 30 C 910 (F B) it was held that complaint must be interpreted throughout the Code as bearing the same meaning as defined but in 40 C 360 at p 361 it was held that the word complaint as used in s 185 infra is of wider import than the definition of complaint as that section clearly contemplates prosecution at the instance of Police-officers Under the N Y Cr Pro Code information is defined as the allegation made to a Magistrate that a person has been guilty of some designated crime. It corresponds to the term complaint and is used in the reported cases in the same sense.

2. Other provisions as to complaints—See s 180 for taking cognizance of a complaint s 190 for complaint by or sanction in respect of several offences against public servants and against public justice etc ss 196 199 for complaints in respect of particular offences ss 200 202 for procedure after cognizance of complaint ss 203 and 204 for dismissal of complaint s 248 for withdrawal of complaint s 250 for compensation in the case of false complaint s 439 for further inquiry in cases of dismissals of complaint s 537 for cases of omission etc. in complaint.

3. Complainant.—(1) Sections of the Code dealing with complainant—See ss 170 and 171 for directions as to Police officers regarding complainants s 200 for examination of complainant s 217 for binding over complainant in Sessions cases s 259 for consequences of absence of complainant in warrant-cases and s 544 for expenses of complainant.

(2) Generally a written complaint.—The complaint may generally be made by any person a mare before issuing process on such allegations the Magistrate should satisfy himself on proper materials that a case for issuing process has been made out. See also 10 C. W N 1099 and 1095, 22 B. 112, 14 C. 737.
2. (Repeal of enactments, notifications, etc., under repealed Acts, Pending cases)

Repealed by the Repealing and Amending Act X of 1914

(1) Generally legislative enactments relating to procedure have no retrospective force. See on the subject 2 B 149, 2 A. 74, 20 M. 481, 2 C. 225, and 23 C. 833.

(2) Effect of repeal.—See s 6 of General Clauses Act X of 1897

3. In every enactment passed before this Code comes into force, in which reference is made to or to any chapter or section of the Code of Criminal Procedure Act XV of 1861 or Act X of 1872, or Act X of 1882, or to any other enactment hereby repealed, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be taken to be made to this Code or to its corresponding chapter or section.

(2) In every enactment passed before this Code comes into force, the expressions "officer exercising (or 'having') the powers (or 'the full powers') of a Magistrate, "Subordinate Magistrate, first class," and "Subordinate Magistrate, second class," shall respectively be deemed to mean "Magistrate of the first class, Magistrate of the second class," and "Magistrate of the third class," the expression "Magistrate of a division of a district," shall be deemed to mean "Sub-divisional Magistrate, the expression "Magistrate of the district" shall be deemed to mean "District Magistrate, the expression "Magistrate of Police," shall be deemed to mean "Presidency Magistrate, and the expression "Joint Sessions Judge" shall mean "Additional Sessions Judge,"

Note.—Cf s 8 of General Clauses Act X of 1897

4. (1) In this Code the following words and expressions have the following meanings unless a different intention appears from the subject or context—

(a) 'Advocate-General' includes also a Government Advocate or where, there is no Advocate-General or Government Advocate, such officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

Note.—Includes—Where a definition includes certain persons or things, it does not necessarily exclude other person or things not so included 4 C 465 at p. 493. See also 2 M 5, 22 B 233.

(b) 'Bailable offence' means an offence shown as bailable in the second schedule, or which is made bailable by any other law for the time being in force, and "non-bailable offence" means any other offence.

Note.—See Ch XXXIX for provisions as to bail.

(c) 'Charge' includes any head of charge when the charge contains more heads than one.

Note.—This definition adopts the view of Scott, in 8 B. 200.

Note.—The words in bracket were substituted for the words "Recorder of Rangoon" by the Lower Larma Courts Act 1 of 1900 (See s. 47 and Sch 1)
"Clerk of the Crown."

(d) "Clerk of the Crown" includes any officer specially appointed by the Chief Justice to discharge the functions given by this Code to the Clerk of the Crown.

Note.—Functions given to the Clerk of the Crown.—See ss 216, 226, 318, 314 and 539, also ss 211 and 218, infra.

(e) "Cognisable offence" means an offence for, and "cognisable case" means a case in which a Police-officer, within or without the Presidency towns, may, in accordance with the second schedule, or under any law for the time being in force arrest without warrant.

Notes.—1. Under any law.—The offence of making in contravention of s 3 any such piece as is mentioned in that section shall be a cognisable offence, s 5, Act I of 1889 (The Metal Tokens Act). So also one under s 45 of Bombay Salt Act II of 1890.

2. Offence cognisable even if power of arrest limited to particular Police-officers.—Under the Bengal Gambling Act II of 1867 it was held in 27 C. 141 that the words "a Police-officer in the clause do not mean "any and every Police-officer." The power of arrest may be limited to any particular class of Police-officers.

The offences under ss 4 and 5 of the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act were held cognisable offences within the meaning of s 4 (1) (f) of this Code. 50 Bom. 344 = 28 Bom. C. R. 272.

3. Power of arrest must be unqualified.—The power of arrest without warrant referred to in this clause is an unqualified power and not a conditional power as in s 24 of Act XIII of 1857 (Opium Act I of 1878, Lower Provinces), which only gives right to a Police officer to arrest without warrant in case the accused does not furnish the security required by that section. 24 C. 691.

4. See memorandum of chief cognisable offences under s 154 infra.

"Commissioner of Police.

(f) "Commissioner of Police" includes a Deputy Commissioner of Police.

(g) "Complaint" means the allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate with a view to his taking action, under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but it does not include the report of a Police officer.

Notes.—1. Interpretation.—In 30 C. 910 (F.B.) it was held that "complaint" must be interpreted throughout the Code as bearing the same meaning as defined in 40 G. 380 at p. 384 it was held that the word "complaint" as used in s 195, infra, is of wider import than the definition of "complaint" as that section clearly contemplates prosecution at the instance of Police-officers. Under the N Y Cr Pro Code information is defined as "the allegation made to a Magistrate, that a person has been guilty of some designated crime." It corresponds to the term "complaint" and is used in the reported cases in the same sense.

2. Other provisions as to "complaints."—See s 190 for taking cognizance of a complaint s 199 for complaint by or sanction in respect of several offences against public servants and against public justice, etc., ss 196—199 for complaints in respect of particular offences, s 200—202 for procedure after cognizance of complaint, ss 203 and 204 for dismissal of complaint, s 248 for withdrawal of complaint, s 250 for compensation in the case of false complaint, s 499 for further inquiry in cases of dismissals of complaint, s 537 for cases of omission, etc., in complaint.

3. Complainant.—(1) Sections of the Code dealing with complainant.—See ss 170 and 171 for directions as to Police officers regarding complainants s 200 for examination of complainant, s 217 for binding over complainant in Sessions cases, ss 259 for consequences of absence of complainant in warrant-cases and s 541 for expenses of complainant.

(ii) Generally anyone may complain.—The complaint may generally be made by any person aware of the commission of the offence and not necessarily by the party injured. 13 B. 600; 21 B. 536; 18 A. 563; 10 C. L. J. 15 (A.), 29 C. 451, 41 C. 1013; 14 Cr. L. J. 409 (O). A Public Prosecutor can make a complaint. The person making the complaint need not himself be a witness nor have personal knowledge of the facts constituting the offence. 7 B. L. R. 77 = 13 Cr. L. J. 359; 41 C. 1013. In 11 C. L. R. 170 = 5 Cr. L. J. 13; it was, however, held, that before issuing process on such allegations the Magistrate should satisfy himself on proper materials that a case for issuing process has been made out. COLONIAL NOBILITY
RECOGNISED BY THE IMPERIAL GOVERNMENT.

CANADA.
The Patent of Nobility of the Feudal Barony of De L'Ornoseul (Grant), with remainder to descendants male or female, by tenure, signed by King Louis XIV, granting this title to Charles le Moyne for distinguished services, is remarkable as creating not only a Territorial Barony, but also conferring a title of honour upon himself and his descendants, whether male or female. The creation of Canada in England by the Treaty of Paris in 1763, made no change in the legal right to hold honours; since this period each successive head of the family has, by assumption of right, used the titles, but it was not officially recognized by the British Government until December 4th, 1859.

MALTA.
The Nobles of Malta take precedence among themselves according to the date of creation of Nobility, and irrespective of title. They are officially addressed as “Most Noble,” while their eldest sons enjoy the courtesy title of Marchese, Conte, or Baronino, and the younger sons and daughters are styled del Marchesul, del Contul, or del Baronul, according to the title which ennobles the family. Some of the titles are feudal, and devolve with certain estates by perpetual entail. The title is generally added to the surname. When Malta came under British protection, the Royal Commissioners, in the name of King George III, and his successors, promulgated that the laws, rights, and privileges of the Maltese should be maintained. The Reports of Commissions appointed to decide the claims recognized by the Imperial Government were presented to both Houses of Parliament by command of Her Majesty in May 1878 and August 1885.

The titles of the Maltese Nobility (with surnames) are Count of Hencrave (Carana-Galo), Baron (Testaferrata-Bonuc-Chirag), and Baron of Tabria (Testaferrata-Moreoni-Valli).

FOREIGN TITLES.
Foreign Titles borne by British Subjects do not afford their holders any precedence whatever in this country, and strictly speaking a Royal License should be obtained for their use.

Among Foreign Titles held by British Subjects are those of Baron Hettinck [see “Companions,” and D. Portland, colls.], Count Hettinck [see D. Portland, colls.], Duke of Brotl [see V. Dioljor], Marquis de But, Count de Bult and de Bochard [see “Companions,”], Barons de Bunt, Counts of Cape St. Vincent [see John], Dr., colls., Count of Carabas, Baron Cangin, Count Ricardo-Curit, Baron de Hochefeld, Baron de Kazer, Marquis de la Pasture, Count de la Poer, Duke de Locard, Baron de Retier, Baron de Roche, Baron de Nutkey, Count de Salis, Duke de Stactel, Duke de Trevi, Marquis de Peral, Count de Vilva, Lord, Baron Dine-Pale, Duke and Marquis Gandolfi [see R. Money, Nepre, and Bourton, colls.], Baroness de Goldmeid de Palmira [see Goldmeid, D.], Baron Heale, Count Maguiffy Coriat de Cast, Count Matte, Count More, M.D., Marquis de Moral, and Marquis Societa. Many other foreign titles are merged in British Peerage dignities or in Baronetcy.

The early history of this family is involved in antiquity. The earliest surname under which the family of Colquhoun is traced is that of Kilpatrick. Sir John Colquhoun, of Luss, 4th in descent from unhurried de Killpatrick (now Alexander II), was created a baronet of Nova Scotia by Charles I. Sir Humphry Colquhoun, 3rd Baronet, in 1704 resigned his Barony to the Crown, and obtained a new patent with the old precedence, but with consequence.

The family claims descent from Malcolm, son of Frechlin, who, when Prince Malcolm fled from Macbeth, after the death of Duncan, 1309, concealed the Prince from his pursuers by, so the story goes, faking him over him in the hayfield (see shake-fork in the arms, and the motto). After Malcolm was recalled to the throne of Scotland, he conferred on his kinsman the throned of Cuninghame, from which the family takes its name. Sir Thomas is claimant to the dormant Earldom of Glenasmot.
